TORNADOES TAKE HEAVY TOLL OF HUMANITY

CENTRAL MISSOURI, SOUTHERN KANSAS AND TEXAS ARE HIT

TWO OF THE TWISTERS OPERATE
SEVERAL HUNDRED MILES
APART

MEDICINE LODGE, KANS., COUNTS DEATH LIST OF ELEVEN

Kansas City, Mo., May 9.—(UP)—Two tornadoes striking several hundred miles apart Sunday morning, took a toll of at least 15 lives in central Missouri and southern Kansas, according to reports reaching here today.

The most serious storm centered near Medicine Lodge, Kans., where a death list of eleven was counted, while another striking below Jefferson City, Mo., added four more, according to meager reports.

Property damage was extensive, with two score persons injured, it was reported.

South central Kansas suffered the greatest damage, it was indicated. The tornado swept through Kingman, Reno, Barber and McPherson counties, originating near Medicine Lodge and moving in a northeasterly direction.

The freakish storm split after traveling a few miles, part of it spreading destruction to the east and the other part going directly north through East Hutchinson.

Eighteen persons were reported in serious conditions this morning in Nashville, Hutchinson, Inman and Medora, Kans. These towns contributed greatly to the property damage.

The pathway of the storm was clearly defined by wreckage left behind. Houses were torn down along the entire 100 miles lashed by the wind. The twister finally spent its force north of Inman.

In central Missouri, the tornado struck between Eldon and Versailles, twenty-five miles below Jefferson City. Communication between here and the affected area was disrupted this morning and only incomplete reports of the damage done could be gathered.

Heavy winds were reported from as far north as Columbia and south to below Linn Creek. A dozen persons were reported suffering injuries, some serious. Several are missing and believed dead.

The storm struck in Kansas shortly after midnight Sunday morning. Medicine Lodge was the first town to report the storm. Here three persons were killed and a dozen or more houses demolished. Hutchinson was the next affected. One person was killed there and several thousand dollars property damage done.

Nashville, Calispa and Inman reported high winds and death shortly afterward. Total damage in Kansas is estimated at over a million dollars. Several grain elevators were razed, contributing greatly to the loss.

The damage in Missouri was placed at $250,000, but more complete reports will add to this amount, it was believed.

12 KNOWN DEAD NEAR DALLAS, TEXAS

Dallas, Texas, May 9.—A terrific wind, rain and electrical storm swept over North Texas early today taking a toll of twelve known dead, over a hundred injured, some seriously and did unestimated crop and property damage.

Garland, Texas, in Dallas county, reported eight known dead and a score of injured in Dallas hospitals. The Katy depot was demolished and a number of houses were blown down when a tornado struck there about 3 A. M. Several residences were blown a distance of two blocks.

Nevada, Texas, reported four killed and one-third of its 200 popula-

FEDERAL AGENTS AND STATE

RAIDS

Pittsburgh, May 9.—(UP)—More than 100 policemen, including inspectors, lieutenants and high officials of the department, have been marked for arrest in Pittsburgh's cleanup campaign, William L. King, attorney, executive head of the Citizens League, said today.

Federal agents and state police made wholesale raids on alleged speakeasies and vice establishments yesterday, and King said the city was bone dry for the first time in years.

King predicted graft charges would be filed against many local officials as a result of the raids and a month's investigation under his direction. He was brought here from Kansas City to head the league, which was organized to curb vice and lawlessness.

tion injured. A number are seriously hurt. Houses and buildings were laid low.

Practically every county in northeastern Texas reported property and crop damage.

Dallas had a heavy rain which flooded streets and first floors. Fort Worth reported a similar deluge.

A search was being conducted today of the ruins at Nevada for additional dead and injured. Varying reports from there placed the dead as low as six and on up to 25.

Injured were being brought here and to McKinney and other towns near Nevada for treatment. They told of the storm striking the small town unexpectedly while the villagers were asleep this morning, bringing, in a small way, scenes reminiscent of the recent Rocksprings tornado where 50 persons were killed.

Reports from injured cared for at McKinney stated there were at least 20 dead at Nevada, and that many persons were missing. It is feared there are several persons buried under debris piled high where residences once stood.

Ambulances were being rushed from here, Fort Worth and McKinney with all available doctors, nurses and medical supplies to care for the injured. Word of the storm was sent out by word of mouth as all wires from the town were down.

The trainmen of railroads running through the affected areas carried first word to the outside world, asking for aid. One trainman told the United Press his report stated there were only six dead at Nevada.

At Garland there was less damage and fewer deaths, as the storm was not as great in intensity there. The small village was badly damaged, however. Garland has a population of only about 150.

Highways leading into Dallas this morning were rapidly being cleared of debris to permit more rapid care of the injured. The highways were impassable early this morning, but were open for traffic a few hours after word of the damage done by the storm reached here.

There were pitiful scenes of the finding of the bodies of relatives buried under the heaped up timbers and brick of the houses. The crushed bodies of the dead were brought forth by friends and relatives to await burial.

Total damage of the divergent storm could not be learned, though varying estimates placed the amount well into the thousands of dollars.

Chicago, May 9.—(UP)—As Robin Hood's benevolent brigands sang and played while they robbed the Burgers of Medieval England, so four dapper bandits turned cabaret entertainers while they stripped night club patrons of jewelry and money.

Joseph McFadden, proprietor of the Bluebird Tavern, was standing at the door of his place of business when the gunmen entered, one of them discharged a revolver under McFadden's nose.

"That," he remarked, "will probably keep you quiet for the rest of the evening," it did.

Then the leader of the quartet sang in a rich baritone:

"Hands up, all of you."

One of the boys sat down at the piano and began drumming "Oh, so blue."

The leaders sang it. The others made the rounds, chucking the girls under the chin and robbing the men.

When they had relieved the club patrons of some $600 and all of the jewelry in sight, one of the gunmen gave an exhibition of the black bottom.

For a quarter of an hour the entertainment continued. Then the "entertainers" left, firing a revolver as a parting salute.

FEARS FELT FOR SAFETY OF NUNGESSER

NO REPORTS FROM COASTAL POINTS REGARDING

REPORT THAT FLIERS PASSED OVER PORTLAND, ME., NOT GIVEN CREDENCE

Portsmouth, N. H., May 9.—An airplane which it was believed might be that of Captains Nungesser and Coli passed over the Isle of Shoals at 3:03 P. M. eastern Standard time, according to a message received at the Portsmouth navy yard here this afternoon.

Washington, May 9.—A navy operator at the Boston naval base notified naval communications operator here this afternoon of a report that Nungesser's and Coli's plane had passed speedily over Portland, Maine. The message, at first credited by the department as official, was later listed as quite unofficial, in view of the fact that it was not officially transmitted and copied. The report, it was assumed, was merely one version of the passage of a plane—not the Frenchmen's over the Maine city.

By M. D. TRACY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, May 9.—New York made ready today to welcome Captain Charles Nungesser and Captain Francois Coli, attempting to fly from Paris to New York, although at 11:19 A. M., 35 hours had elapsed without word of the aviators.

Tugs were prepared to go down the bay to greet them, and scores of watchers were on duty scanning the heavens for some trace of the white bird, the Nungesser-Coli airplane.

Five planes were sent from Boston to search for them.

There were plenty of rumors that the aviators had been sighted, including one which reached Halifax and New York that they had passed St. Pierre Et Miquelon, and another received in Paris that they had passed Halifax. But United Press advice failed to confirm any of these rumors and said no sight nor direct word of Nungesser had come to Halifax.

At the end of 35 hours' flight, an average speed of as low as 90 miles an hour would mean they had covered 3,150 miles and if still in flight, the aviators should be within 500 miles or less of New York City.

Weather continued unfavorable through the morning, with areas of headwinds alternating with areas of fog and poor visibility.

The two aviators sped away from their French flying field at 5:15 A. M., Paris time, on Sunday morning or 12:19 A. M., eastern daylight saving time.

They carried 2,800 liters or 764½ gallons of gasoline which was estimated to be sufficient for 4,200 miles of travel. Roughly the course they expected to follow was 3,600 miles. Although their exact distance could not be approximated until they arrive and their logs are checked to determine the course they flew.

But with an average speed of approximately 100 miles per hour which they hoped to make, they should have been off Newfoundland this morning and should reach New

O-GI-TA-AB IS VICTIM OF MURDERER

BODY OF INDIAN FOUND BEHIND GENERAL STORE AT ONAMIA

SKULL FOUND TO BE CRUSHED WITH BLUNT INSTRUMENT

Onamia, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—Following a coroner's verdict that O-Gi-Ta-Ab, head of an Indian tribe, was murdered, Mille Lacs county authorities are hunting for the slayer.

The body of the Indian was found behind the Stein general store on the west shore of Mille Lacs lake late Saturday with his skull crushed by a blunt instrument.

Word was broadcast throughout this section of the state that George Shakopee, who is said to have a criminal record, is wanted in connection with the murder.

Authorities are searching for Shakopee following receipt of information that a transaction between the Indian and another person in which the murdered man was given $20 for a horse and witnessed by Shakopee.

The county coroner stated he believed the victim was slain several days before discovery of the crime.

A brother of George Shakopee is now serving a sentence for disorderly conduct in the Stearns county jail and stated he does not know the whereabouts of the hunted man, authorities said.

York by noon. If they had had favorable weather conditions their average could have exceeded 100 miles per hour but headwinds would have cut it to 90 miles or perhaps even less.

Particularly, severe headwinds would result in consumption of gasoline at a greater rate than under normal conditions and the supply might not last 4,200 miles. But aviators believe that the fuel they carried was sufficient to be considered safe to reach land, if the plane functioned properly.

The fact that the fliers have not been heard from was not considered particularly serious up until mid-morning at least, for several reasons. Over the water the plane would not be visible for any great distance even in clearest weather. Furthermore, they probably have not touched to any great extent the usual steamer lanes.

The liners follow a great circle course over the surface of the ocean as the shortest route across the sea. But the aviators are not confined to the following of the ocean's surface and their shortest route may be governed to a certain extent by the altitude at which they are forced to fly to gain the best weather conditions. It was considered probable that their course carried them as much as 500 miles north of the steamer lanes.

Newfoundland at some undetermined point, however, and then over the Nova Scotia peninsula, outside the Bay of Fundy and to strike the United States in New England north of Boston, following the New England coast to Long Island Sound and thence into New York Harbor.

But all such routings would depend entirely on conditions encountered.

Reports from ships at sea and from land stations today, as well as from the weather bureau, agreed that conditions were anything but favorable—which may mean great alteration in original plans.

Headwinds were blowing in the Atlantic beginning some 500 or 600 miles west of the coast of Ireland. Off Newfoundland there was fog and areas of storm. In Nova Scotia conditions were better today. In the region between New York and Nova Scotia there was varying low hanging fog, a wet drizzle and a few areas of clear skies.

Aviators considered the weather reports were anything but favorable (Continued on Page 8)

"BARE KNUCKLE" MURDER

CHARGED WITH SLAYING RAY
RAYMOND, LITTLE STAGE
COMEDIAN

Los Angeles, May 9.—(UP)—Paul Kelly, athletic young screen star, goes on trial here today for the alleged "bare knuckle" murder of Ray Raymond, diminutive stage comedian.

One hour before Kelly's trial is due to open, Dorothy Mackaye, Raymond's widow and alleged sweetheart of Kelly, is scheduled to enter plea on charges of concealing information in connection with her husband's death.

Raymond, the state contends, died as the result of injuries received in a fist fight with Kelly over Kelly's attentions to Miss Mackaye.

The state will attempt to prove that Raymond's death was a "love murder" and that Kelly planned to marry Miss Mackaye.

W. I. Gilbert, who defended Almee Semple McPherson, last year will defend Kelly.

He is expected to contend that Raymond died of natural causes and that the fight between the two actors resulted from Kelly's attempt to evoke an apology in defense of Miss Mackaye's name.

WOMEN BETWEEN 30 AND 40 PRETTIER THAN FLAPPERS

Chicago, May 9.—(UP)—Women of between 30 and 40 years furnish most dangerous competition for flappers of 20 in contests for the favor of eligible males, according to Edyth Diedrich, beauty expert.

"If a woman of 40 or thereabouts maintains the youthful contour of face and body, her superior intelligence and character make her far more charming than a flapper," Mrs. Diedrich said.

"There is no age in beauty. None of the beauties in the world—from Cleopatra up through the pages of history—was what would be known to day as a flapper."

ENGINEERS PREDICT BREAK IN LEVEE CERTAIN

HOMES OF 200,000 RESIDENTS IN DANGER OF INUNDA-TION

IF RETAINING WALL GIVES WAY
13 PARISHES WILL BE FLOODED

By ALFRED P. RECK
United Press Staff Correspondent

New Orleans, La., May 9.—Despite engineers' predictions that a break in the levee is certain, thousands of workers today labored to strengthen the Mississippi dike at Big Bend and prevent homes of 200,000 southern Louisiana residents being flooded.

The Big Bend is an egg-shaped turn of Bayou des Glaives in Avoyelles parish. Technical experts declared the chance is slight that a break in the levee at this point can be averted.

If the retaining wall gives way at any point along a 27 mile stretch of the river, 13 south-central parishes of the state would be inundated. Suffering from the flood in Louisiana which is now greater than in any of the other stricken states, would be doubled by this eventuality.

Engineers fixed Wednesday as the time of the expected break at Big Bend. The crest of the flood will be there then and the dike will be under maximum strain.

In addition to driving 200,000 persons from the valley, the flood would inundate the great sugar cane belt of Louisiana and cause damage of millions of dollars.

Two hundred fifty boats have been ordered into Bayou des Glaives to stand by in anticipation of the flood.

Although evacuation orders have been issued, few residents of the threatened territory have left their homes, preferring to remain until they "feel the water in their shoes."

Care of the thousands of refugees expected to be driven out of the valley constituted another mammoth problem confronting relief workers. Camps will have to be established on high land in back of the flooded area and many of the victims may have to be removed long distances to safety. Water to the north will cut off retreat in that direction.

The Big Bend situation was aggravated by northern flood waters which have filled Red river and Old river in turn and are emptying into the Mississippi above the danger point. Normally, this water would be carried off by the Atchafalaya river.

By E. W. LEWIS
United Press Staff Correspondent

New Orleans, La., May 9.—Bent on examining the artificial break in the levee which New Orleans depends upon to save the city, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary to War Davis planned to leave here by boat today for Poydras.

Both cabinet members rested last night, free from conferences which have kept them occupied since they arrived in the flood area Thursday.

Davis hoped to leave for the north today to confer with President Coolidge and officials interested in flood control to work out a settlement of the problems involved.

Hoover announced, however, he would remain here until the crisis threatening at Big Bend, where the levee seemed sure to break, was over and relief work under way.

Three possible sites for spillways to regulate floods were examined on the trip south from Baton Rouge by Davis and General Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers. Both wanted it made clear, however, that the sites were only "examined" and no decision has been reached that this method of flood control will be recommended.

Both Hoover and Davis have been much impressed by flood possibilities of the river in this state. Hoover declared a break in the levee seemed probable either on the east side of the Mississippi north of here, on the Atchafalaya or in the Bayou des Glaives area.

At the latter point, water was already slopping against temporary levee tops and the crest of the flood was due to carry the river two feet higher.

Washington, May 9.—(UP)—A movement to get democratic senators to press President Coolidge for an extra session on flood relief was started to day.

Portland, N. H., May 9.—An airplane which it was believed might be that of Captains Nungesser and Gali passed over the Isle of Shoals at 3:03 P. M. eastern Standard time, according to a message received at the Portsmouth navy yard here this afternoon.

Washington, May 9.—A navy operator at the Boston naval base notified naval communications operator here this afternoon of a report that Nungesser's and Gali's plane had passed speedily over Portland, Maine. The message, at first credited by the department as official, was later listed as quite unofficial, in view of the fact that it was not officially transmitted and copied. The report, it was assumed, was merely one version of the passage of a plane—not the Frenchmen's over the Maine city.

New York, May 9.—New York made ready today to welcome Captain Charles Nungesser and Captain Francois Gali, attempting to fly from Paris to New York, although at 11:19 A. M., 35 hours had elapsed without word of the aviators.

Tugs were prepared to go down the bay to greet them, and scores of watchers were on duty scanning the heavens for some trace of the white bird, the Nungesser-Gali airplane.

Five planes were sent from Boston to search for them.

There were plenty of rumors that the aviators had been sighted, including one which reached Halifax and New York that they had passed St. Pierre Et Miquelon, and another received in Paris that they had passed Halifax. But United Press advices failed to confirm any of these rumors and said no sight nor direct word of Nungesser had come to Halifax.

At the end of 35 hours' flight, an average speed of as low as 90 miles an hour would mean they had covered 3,150 miles and if still in flight, the aviators should be within 500 miles or less of New York City.

Weather continued unfavorable through the morning, with areas of fog and poor visibility.

The two aviators sped away from their French flying field at 5:15 A. M. Paris time, on Sunday morning or 12:19 A. M., eastern daylight saving time.

They carried 2,800 liters or 74½ gallons of gasoline which was estimated to be sufficient for 4,200 miles of travel. Roughly the course they expected to follow was 3,600 miles. Although their exact distance could not be approximated until they arrive and their logs are checked to determine the course they flew.

But with an average speed of approximately 100 miles per hour which they hoped to make, they should have been off Newfoundland this morning and should reach New

O-GI-TA-AB IS VICTIM OF MURDERER

BODY OF INDIAN FOUND BEHIND GENERAL STORE AT ONAMIA

SKULL FOUND TO BE CRUSHED WITH BLUNT INSTRUMENT

Onamia, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—Following a coroner's verdict that O-Gi-Ta-Ab, head of an Indian tribe, was murdered, Mille Lacs county authorities are hunting for the slayer.

The body of the Indian was found behind the Stein general store on the west shore of Mille Lacs lake late Saturday with his skull crushed by a blunt instrument.

Word was broadcast throughout this section of the state that George Shakopee, who is said to have a criminal record, is wanted in connection with the murder.

Authorities are searching for Shakopee following receipt of information that a transaction between the Indian and another person in which the murdered man was given $20 for a horse and witnessed by Shakopee.

The county coroner stated he believed the victim was slain several days before discovery of the crime.

A brother of George Shakopee is now serving a sentence for disorderly conduct in the Stearns county jail and stated he does not know the whereabouts of the hunted man, authorities said.

York by noon. If they had had favorable weather conditions their average could have exceeded 100 miles per hour but headwinds would have cut it to 90 miles or perhaps even less.

Particularly severe headwinds would result in consumption of gasoline at a greater rate than under normal conditions and the supply might not last 4,200 miles. But aviators believe that the fuel they carried was sufficient to be considered safe to reach land, if the plane functioned properly.

The fact that the fliers have not been heard from was not considered particularly serious up until mid-morning at least, for several reasons. Over the water the plane would not be visible for any great distance even in clearest weather. Furthermore, they probably have not touched to any great extent the usual steamer lanes.

The liners follow a great circle course over the surface of the ocean as the shortest route across the sea. But the aviators are not confined to the following of the ocean's surface and their shortest route may be governed to a certain extent by the altitude at which they are forced to fly to gain the best weather conditions. It was considered probable that their course carried them as much as 500 miles north of the steamer lanes.

They were expected to pass over Newfoundland at some undetermined point, however, and then over the Nova Scotian peninsula, outside the Bay of Fundy and to strike the United States in New England north of Boston, following the New England coast to Long Island Sound and thence into New York Harbor.

But all such routings would depend entirely on conditions encountered. Reports from ships at sea and from land stations today, as well as from the weather bureau, agreed that conditions were anything but favorable—which may mean great alteration in original plans.

Headwinds were blowing in the Atlantic beginning some 500 or 600 miles west of the coast of Ireland. Off Newfoundland there was fog and areas of storm. In Nova Scotia conditions were better today. In the region between New York and Nova Scotia there was varying low hanging fog, a wet drizzle and a few areas of clear skies.

Aviators considered the weather reports were anything but favorable

CLOSED SEASON ON PARTRIDGES FOR THIS YEAR

St. Paul, May 9.—(UP)—Closed season on partridge this year was ordered today by Governor Theodore Christianson at the request of J. F. Gould, state game and fish commissioner.

Poor hatching for both 1926 and 1927 have caused depletion of the birds, the order stated. The season was scheduled to open October 15.

PAUL KELLY, ATHLETIC SCREEN STAR, ON TRIAL

TO BE TRIED FOR ALLEGED "BARE KNUCKLE" MURDER

CHARGED WITH SLAYING RAY RAYMOND, LITTLE STAGE COMEDIAN

Los Angeles, May 9.—(UP)—Paul Kelly, athletic young screen star, goes on trial here today for the alleged "bare knuckle" murder of Ray Raymond, diminutive stage comedian.

One hour before Kelly's trial is due to open, Dorothy Mackaye, Raymond's widow and alleged sweetheart of Kelly, is scheduled to enter plea on charges of concealing information in connection with her husband's death.

Raymond, the state contends, died as the result of injuries received in a fist fight with Kelly over Kelly's attentions to Miss Mackaye.

The state will attempt to prove that Raymond's death was a "love murder" and that Kelly planned to marry Miss Mackaye.

W. I. Gilbert, who defended Alcee Semple McPherson, last year will defend Kelly.

He is expected to contend that Raymond died of natural causes and that the fight between the two actors resulted from Kelly's attempt to evoke an apology in defense of Miss Mackaye's name.

WOMEN BETWEEN 30 AND 40 PRETTIER THAN FLAPPERS

Chicago, May 9.—(UP)—Women of between 30 and 40 years furnish most dangerous competition for flappers of 20 in contests for the favor of eligible males, according to Edyth Dietrich, beauty expert.

"If a woman of 40 or thereabouts maintains the youthful contour of face and body, her superior intelligence and character make her far more charming than a flapper," Mrs. Dietrich said.

"There is no age in beauty. None of the beauties in the world—from Cleopatra up through the pages of history—was what would be known today as a flapper."

FARIBAULT MEAT MARKET ROBBED

Faribault, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—Police today are investigating burglary of the Buchet meat market here some time during the night in which $400 was taken from a safe.

The authorities are working on the theory that the work was done by persons familiar with the combination or experienced with the mechanism of a strong box.

The theft was discovered by T. F. Clark, manager of the store.

UNMASKED WOMAN BANDIT WORKS IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, May 8.—(UP)—An unmasked woman bandit held up the William A. Kerker drug store here late Sunday and, after locking the pharmacist in the basement, escaped with $153 in cash.

M. D. Lonergan was alone in the store when the bandit entered and the feminine voice from behind a gun ordered him below where he remained until released about an hour later by a customer.

ENGINEERS PREDICT BREAK IN LEEVE CERTAIN

HOMES OF 200,000 RESIDENTS IN DANGER OF INUNDA- TION

IF RETAINING WALL GIVES WAY 13 PARISHES WILL BE FLOODED

By ALFRED P. RECK
United Press Staff Correspondent

New Orleans, La., May 9.—Despite engineers' predictions that a break in the levee is certain, thousands of workers today labored to strengthen the Mississippi dike at Big Bend and prevent homes of 200,000 southern Louisiana residents being flooded.

The Big Bend is an egg-shaped turn of Bayou des Glaisses in Avoyelles parish. Technical experts declared the chance is slight that a break in the levee at this point can be averted.

If the retaining wall gives way at any point along a 27 mile stretch of the river, 13 south-central parishes of the state would be inundated. Suffering from the flood in Louisiana which is now greater than in any of the other stricken states, would be doubled by this eventuality.

Engineers fixed Wednesday as the time of the expected break at Big Bend. The crest of the flood will be there then and the dike will be under maximum strain.

In addition to driving 200,000 persons from the valley, the flood would inundate the great sugar cane belt of Louisiana and cause damage of millions of dollars.

Two hundred fifty boats have been ordered into Bayou des Glaisses to stand by in anticipation of the flood.

Although evacuation orders have been issued, few residents of the threatened territory have left their homes, preferring to remain until they "feel the water in their shoes."

Care of the thousands of refugees expected to be driven out of the valley constituted another mammoth problem confronting relief workers. Camps will have to be established on high land in back of the flooded area and many of the victims may have to be removed long distances to safety. Water to the north will cut off retreat in that direction.

The Big Bend situation was aggravated by northern flood waters which have filled Red river and Old river in turn and are emptying into the Mississippi above the danger point. Normally, this water would be carried off by the Atchafalaya river.

By E. W. LEWIS

United Press Staff Correspondent

New Orleans, La., May 9.—Bent on examining the artificial break in the levee which New Orleans depends upon to save the city, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of War Davis planned to leave here by boat today for Poydras.

Both cabinet members rested last night, free from conferences which have kept them occupied since they arrived in the flood area Thursday.

Davis hoped to leave for the north today to confer with President Coolidge and officials interested in flood control to work out a settlement of the problems involved.

Hoover announced, however, he would remain here until the crisis threatening at Big Bend, where the levee seemed sure to break, was over and relief work under way.

Three possible sites for spillways to regulate floods were examined on the trip south from Baton Rouge by Davis and General Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers. Both wanted it made clear, however, that the sites were only "examined" and no decision has been reached that this method of flood control will be recommended.

Both Hoover and Davis have been much impressed by flood possibilities of the river in this state. Hoover declared a break in the levee seemed probable either on the east side of the Mississippi north of here, on the Atchafalaya or in the Bayou des Glaisses area.

At the latter point, water was already slopping against temporary levee tops and the crest of the flood was due to carry the river two feet higher.

Washington, May 9.—(UP)—A movement to get democratic senators to press President Coolidge for an extra session on flood relief was started to-

Brainerd Ladies Bank Asked to Play at Northwest State Fair

WEEK STARTING JULY 4

North Dakotans Pleased With Playing and Appearance of Band at St. Cloud

As a result of playing for the Rotarian district convention last week, in St. Cloud, the Brainerd Ladies band has received a letter from H. L. Finke, secretary of the Northwest State Fair Association of North Dakota making them an offer to play for the Fair which will begin July 4 and continue for a week.

The band will hold its regular weekly rehearsal tomorrow night at which time the offer will be discussed. If the band accepts the engagement it will bring further recognition to Brainerd and the trip should receive the backing of civic organizations throughout the city.

The letter received from Mr. Finke says in part:

"I had the pleasure of listening to your band at the Minnesota State Fair last year and was very much impressed by it. At that time I decided to write to you regarding a contract at our Fair this year."

"I was very glad to know that you made such a hit with our Rotary boys, especially Mr. Mills. He has been up to the office two or three times praising your band and seems to have been very favorably impressed with it."

The Northwest State Fair was founded in 1922 and is held at Minot, N. D.

CAPT. SAINT ROMAN
AND 2 COMPANIONS
ARE STILL MISSING

Pernambuco, Brazil, May 9.—(UP)—Captain Saint Roman, French aviator, and his two companions on an attempted flight across the south Atlantic ocean were still missing today. A search of islands near the coast and isolated places along the coast itself revealed no trace of the plane or the airmen, who left Africa Thursday morning for this city.

Paris, May 9.—(UP)—The French Line today received a wireless report that Captain Saint Roman, French aviator who has been missing since Thursday, when he tried to fly from Africa to Brazil, had been found off the Cape Verde islands. The report was without confirmation.

United Press investigation of earlier reports that Saint Roman and his three companions had been found in the vicinity of the Cape Verde islands indicated that the reports were false.

The Men's club of Bethlehem Lutheran church will meet at the church assembly rooms tomorrow (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. Business session and a program followed by the social hour. Hosts for the evening, Hans Bengard and Ole Skillestad.

Mission Circle No. 2 will meet on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Robert Peterson, 623 South 6th street.

Federated Church Women
The Federated Church women will meet Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce parlors. "World Peace" under the leadership of Mrs. A. G. Patterson will be discussed. It is hoped that representatives from every church will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg Entertain
The members of the male chorus of the Clara Lutheran church and wives, and a number of invited friends were most royally entertained last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Lindberg, 1420 Quince street Southeast. The event had been planned to honor Harold Brostrom, one of the members of the chorus, who leaves soon to take up his work elsewhere.

Part of the evening was spent in the form of a rehearsal by the chorus who under the direction of Mrs. E. F. Heeden, expect to give a concert in the near future. Miss Jennie Beck and John Holvick also rendered solo selections, during the evening. A most delicious luncheon was served, and after a pleasant evening the guests, in leaving, all wished Mr. Brostrom unbounded success in his new field.

Presbyterian Missionary Society
The Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church will meet this Thursday afternoon instead of Friday, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Patterson. Members and friends of the church are asked to please note the change of date.

Clean Up and Paint Up

ALL READY—waiting for you

A paint store—a hardware store—a household supply shop are constructive forces in any town or village. More and more people are coming to do odd jobs around the house or the business office themselves, when the task is not sufficiently important to call in professional help.

We are waiting for you in that drive you are going to make this spring (and all through the year), to have your home and everything in and around it attractive to the eye.

Paints, varnishes, enamels, brushing lacquers, paint and varnish removers, brushes for every possible purpose, color cards and charts that help you make your selection—it is fun to "get busy" in this way, and with these essential accessories.

You are saving yourself money in more ways than one, and you will enjoy participating in the National Clean-Up and Paint-Up movement.

NORTH DAKOTA SEEKS BAND

Brainerd Ladies Bank Asked to Play at Northwest State Fair

WEEK STARTING JULY 4

North Dakotans Pleased With Playing and Appearance of Band at St. Cloud

As a result of playing for the Rotarian district convention last week, in St. Cloud, the Brainerd Ladies bank has received a letter from H. L. Finke, secretary of the Northwest State Fair Association of North Dakota making them an offer to play for the Fair which will begin July 4 and continue for a week.

The band will hold its regular weekly rehearsal tomorrow night at which time the offer will be discussed. If the band accepts the engagement it will bring further recognition to Brainerd and the trip should receive the backing of civic organizations throughout the city.

The letter received from Mr. Finke says in part:

"I had the pleasure of listening to your band at the Minnesota State Fair last year and was very much impressed by it. At that time I decided to write to you regarding a contract at our Fair this year.

"I was very glad to know that you made such a hit with our Rotary boys, especially Mr. Mills. He has been up to the office two or three times praising your band and seems to have been very favorably impressed with it."

The Northwest State Fair was founded in 1922 and is held at Minot, N. D.

Mrs. George H. Warner and Mrs. Hanke Entertain

Mrs. George H. Warner of 611 North Fifth street, with her sister, Mrs. H. J. Hanke, of Minneapolis were hostesses at a party, Saturday afternoon. Bridge was played at 10 tables. Decorations were suggestive of the spring season. Prizes were won by Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Mrs. Melvin Carlson and Mrs. W. H. Gemmell.

M. E. Young Peoples Department
The Young People's department of the Methodist church will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight at the Benson Bros. cottage at Gull Lake. Cars will leave the church at 7:30 o'clock.

Rebekah Social Club
The Rebekah Social club will meet Tuesday afternoon, May 10th at the home of Mrs. Harry Peterson, 205 E Street Northeast. Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Matt Hill will entertain. Visitors are welcome.

Presbyterian Missionary Society
The Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church will meet this Thursday afternoon instead of Friday, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Patterson. Members and friends of the church are asked to please note the change of date.

Odd Fellow Baseball Benefit Show Opens Two Days Engagement

MANY TICKETS SOLD

Picture Has Mighty Background, Showing World's Series Teams in Action

"Slide, Kelly Slide," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer baseball feature picture showing at the Lyceum Tuesday and Wednesday, is being given for the benefit of the local Odd Fellows baseball club.

The picture has a mighty background, showing a great grandstand in New York filled with thousands of frenzied fans during last year's World Series games. Cameras were sent from the studios and set up during the Series games played in New York.

Odd Fellows sponsoring the show predict a record attendance, basing their prediction on advance sales. Persons wishing to see this baseball spectacle are urged to buy their tickets this evening in order that the baseball club may receive credit for the sales. Tickets are on sale at John M. Bye's, the Princess, Smraker's, and the L. F. Hohman store.

CAPT. SAINT ROMAN AND 2 COMPANIONS ARE STILL MISSING

Pernambuco, Brazil, May 9.—(UP)—Captain Saint Roman, French aviator, and his two companions on an attempted flight across the south Atlantic ocean were still missing today. A search of islands near the coast and isolated places along the coast itself revealed no trace of the plane or the airmen, who left Africa Thursday morning for this city.

Paris, May 9.—(UP)—The French Line today received a wireless report that Captain Saint Roman, French aviator who has been missing since Thursday, when he tried to fly from Africa to Brazil, had been found off the Cape Verde islands. The report was without confirmation.

United Press investigation of earlier reports that Saint Roman and his three companions had been found in the vicinity of the Cape Verde islands indicated that the reports were false.

TO ALL HOLDERS OF SECOND LIBERTY LOAN BONDS

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION

All outstanding Second Liberty Loan 4 per cent bonds of 1927-42 (Second 4's) and all outstanding Second Liberty Loan Converted 4 1/2 per cent bonds of 1927-42 (Second 4 1/2's) are called for redemption on November 15, 1927, pursuant to the terms of their issue. MUSICAL CLUB ENTERS CONTEST

Twelve Singers to Appear in Choral Contest at Melrose Women's Club Convention

MISS DREXLER DIRECTING

Mrs. Louis Knutsen Will Officiate as Accompanist at Singing

The twenty-second annual convention of the Sixth District Federation of Women's clubs is meeting today and tomorrow at Melrose, Minn., the guest of the Melrose Study club at St. Boniface Recreation hall.

This evening a choral contest is being conducted, the cities represented being Brooten, Long Prairie, Paynesville, Brainerd and Melrose. Brainerd has always ranked high in these contests and it is hoped that chief honors will be carried off by them this evening.

The Brainerd Musical club sent 12 members to take part in the contest under the direction of Miss Effie Drexler. Mrs. Louis Knutsen is the accompanist. The first sopranos consist of the Mesdames J. H. Kregelberg, Carl Zappfe, J. A. Alderman and Miss Johnson. The second sopranos are the Misses Emily Mraz, Alma Brown, Jennie Beck, and Mrs. Harry Paine. The altos are composed of the Misses Harriet Sager, Esther Fogelstrom, Hildegard Erstad and Mrs. C. W. Mahlum. Four delegates including Mrs. J. J. Cummins, Mrs. A. C. Weber, Mrs. J. A. Thabes and Mrs. D. E. Whitney were also sent to attend the sessions.

Among the speakers at the convention will be Mrs. Willard Bayliss, President of the Minnesota State Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Edward M. Kane of Melrose, J. R. McCrory of the State Teachers College, St. Cloud, Mrs. Geo. J. Allen of Rochester, Mrs. E. G. Quamme of St. Paul and Ross E. Finney of the University of Minnesota.

The annual election of officers will be held tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock. The present officers of the sixth district are: President Mrs. E. Everett Clark, St. Cloud; Vice President Mrs. P. M. Hall, Walker; Corresponding Secretary Mrs. Willard Freeman, St. Cloud; Treasurer Mrs. U. S. G. Henry, Park Rapids.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

Mrs. A. M. Swedberg of Bethel Institute, St. Paul, at Swedish Baptist Church

The Swedish Baptist church of Brainerd is bringing Mrs. A. M. Swedberg from the Bethel Institute of St. Paul to conduct a two weeks' school of religious education.

Mrs. Swedberg has had great experience in education being a teacher in Seattle, Wash., for several years and in St. Paul for eight years.

She has had charge of several Bible schools and will bring supplies and equipment to conduct a standard school here from June 13 to 26.

The school will be conducted entirely in English and all classes will be held in the church. Everyone is invited to enroll their children. There will be no enrollment fee but it will be open to all. All are urged to enroll early so as to make possible the best arrangements. For enrollment call the pastor Seth Jacobson, 863-W or write him at 1205 Pine street.

Ernster-Skauge

A marriage of interest to Brainerd people occurred in Hollywood, Calif., on Saturday, April 30, when Miss I. Mildred Skauge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Skauge of this city, became the bride of Omer F. Ernster of Hollywood. After the ceremony dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ernster where the announcement came as a surprise to the guests who had gathered to celebrate the 49th wedding anniversary of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ernster formerly of Brainerd.

The bride, who is a graduate of the local high school, Macalester college of St. Paul and the MacPhail School of Music of Minneapolis, is well known in Brainerd where she has been actively engaged in church and musical circles. The groom who recently returned from several years on the West Coast of Africa where he had charge of the geological and exploration work for the Sinclair Oil Co., is also a graduate of the Brainerd high school and the University of Minnesota.

The happy couple are now honeymooning in Southern California and Old Mexico. On their return they will make their home at 6830 Sunset Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT SPORTS CLOTHES

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, May 7.—(UP)—The woman golfer is restricted somewhat when it comes to the matter of golf costumes. Very often she finds herself far out on the links dressed in a crepe de chene frock when it suddenly rains and her day is ruined as far as golf is concerned. However, that matter is solved this season as rubberized crepe de chenes and rubberized velveteens have been introduced for just such purposes.

The rubberized velveteens are being made up into the smartest of little sports coats and matching them are rubberized crepe de chene skirts or one-piece frocks. Both plain and printed velveteens are obtainable in rubberized effects, the printed types often including reptilian designs.

Barking handbags have created quite a furor in the department stores of New York. Dogs of wooly material with zipper-like fastenings on their backs are so fashioned that when one pulls their tails long barking occurs. Yesterday several girls along Broadway honked their dog handbags as a means of making way for themselves in heavy traffic.

The long pearl necklaces may be worn in various manners this Spring. Little rhinestone pins made so that they can hold two or more strands of pearls together are the means of this achievement. The pins are raised high at the tops thus permitting even the largest of pearl beads to pass through them. Sometimes ruby or emerald colored stones are combined with the rhinestones adding a bit of color to the pins. The most novel placement for this ornament is at the side of the neck and when the long strand is wrapped about the neck three times and held at one side by a lovely pin the effect is appropriate for evening wear.

Hats made of reptilian leather dyed in black and white colorings adorn one of New York's smart millinery windows this week. The skull shapes are used for this material and some very novel effects are achieved.

Camp Improvements Being Made

Friday night at 5:30 o'clock, fifteen Scouts of our new Southeast Brainerd Troop No. 4 left from Brainerd for camp. Mr. Brandt took one load out, Mr. Rhodes took another load, Mr. Newton taking a load with him.

Upon arriving at Camp beds were made, the fire started in the cook stove and the sweet aroma of food started to fill the air. During this time, a small detail worked on the pump to get it in working order. The pump finally fixed and supper eaten, the gang went over to the Council ring under the balsam firs and there built a fire and had a mighty interesting time singing and telling stories. Taps were sounded a little later.

The crew was up bright and early Saturday morning with their working muscles on ready to set the pace for other troops that might come out. In spite of the intermittent rains during the day, one crew applied a gallon of paint to the mess hall while the rest of the boys worked roofing the sleeping cabins. They finished the papering of one cabin and completely roofed two more. Mr. Newton claims this is a real record and challenges any other troop to do as much in one day. The old bag swing was inspected and found, to be in excellent shape so the day was finished by having some hair-raising swings after which we were ready to go home. As the men who had brought them out forgot to come back after them, Mr. Newton took a load in and reminded Mr. Brandt who came out and Mr. Newton returned for a second load. Upon arriving back, the nine boys left had found a couple of oranges and a couple of lemons, a part of a loaf of bread and some butter that some of the boys had left, had lighted both stoves.

made hot lemonade, and were singing loud enough so that one could have heard them for blocks. Happy! Having a good time? Yea! And the gang was on the way back to Brainerd!

Shopping, A Symbol of Civilization

No one ever told the little woman hurrying along Main Street with her shopping bag under her arm, that she carries what nations have fought to uphold, down throughout the ages—the torch of civilization.

What does her swinging basket hold—curtains to beautify her home, shoes to safeguard tiny, stumbling toes, sheets to make the beds of her family soft and restful. Just everyday things—now, yes—but luxuries denied all but a king a thousand years ago.

The J. C. Penney Company with its nation-wide organization of 773 stores is but a regiment in that vast merchandise army, struggling to bring goods from where they are to where they are needed with the greatest possible economy of time, effort and money. Every salesman is but one more soldier in the fight, that has been waged for centuries, to make easy the path of those hurrying feet. He is doing his bit to uphold the standards of civilization.

DON'T call your Meadows dealer unless you are prepared for surprise.

If you have any notions about what a washing machine may be expected to do, please forget them before you phone him.

For the new Meadows is guaranteed to produce Monday Magic... to wash more clothes in less time... with smaller effort on your part... than you believe possible.

The slippery, smooth, glossy Bakelite Impeller in the new Meadows does truly amazing work.

While it produces the greatest water action still it protects clothes. While it washes clothes faster, it does it as gently as you could by hand.

Call your Meadows dealer without delay.

These statements will be proved before your eyes. While the Meadows is priced no higher than the average good machine, none other has the Bakelite magic impeller, the big oversize square tub with the largest washing capacity in the world. A tub that is Udytited to make it rust-proof... steel to keep it dent-proof.

While the Meadows may be purchased on just as easy terms, still you won't be asked to buy. If this wonder washer delights you... then suggest to your dealer the terms on which you would like to keep it.

Camp Improvements Being Made

Friday night at 5:30 o'clock, fifteen Scouts of our new Southeast Brainerd Troop No. 4 left from Brainerd for camp. Mr. Brandt took one load out, Mr. Rhodes took another load, Mr. Newton taking a load with him.

Upon arriving at Camp beds were made, the fire started in the cook stove and the sweet aroma of food started to fill the air. During this time, a small detail worked on the pump to get it in working order. The pump finally fixed and supports eaten, the gang went over to the Council ring under the balsam firs and there built a fire and had a mighty interesting time singing and telling stories. Taps were sounded a little later.

The crew was up bright and early Saturday morning with their working muscles on ready to set the pace for other troops that might come out. In spite of the intermittent rains during the day, one crew applied a gallon of paint to the mess hall while the rest of the boys worked roofing the sleeping cabins. They finished the papering of one cabin and completely roofed two more. Mr. Newton claims this is a real record and challenges any other troop to do as much in one day. The old bag swing was inspected and found, to be in excellent shape so the day was finished by having some hair-raising swings after which we were ready to go home. As the men who had brought them out forgot to come back after them, Mr. Newton took a load in and reminded Mr. Brandt who came out and Mr. Newton returned for a second load. Upon arriving back, the nine boys left had found a couple of oranges and a couple of lemons, a part of a loaf of bread and some butter that some of the boys had left, had lighted both stoves, made hot lemonade, and were singing loud enough so that one could have heard them for blocks. Happy! Having a good time? Yea bo! And the gang was on the way back to Brainerd!

Shopping, A Symbol of Civilization

No one ever told the little woman hurrying along Main Street with her shopping bag under her arm, that she carries what nations have fought to uphold, down throughout the ages—the torch of civilization.

What does her swinging basket hold—curtains to beautify her home, shoes to safeguard tiny, stumbling toes, sheets to make the beds of her family soft and restful. Just everyday things — now, yes—but luxuries denied all but a king a thousand years ago.

The J. C. Penney Company with its nation-wide organization of 773 stores is but a regiment in that vast merchandise army, struggling to bring goods from where they are to where they are needed with the greatest possible economy of time, effort and money. Every salesman is but one more soldier in the fight, that has been waged for centuries, to make easy the path of those hurrying feet. He is doing his bit to uphold the standards of civilization.

FINE RESPONSE ACCORDED

It is with pleasure that the Brainerd Dispatch notes the fine response of Brainerd citizens to the Red Cross appeal for flood relief funds to aid the stricken south. Within a short time after the call was announced in the Dispatch, $500 has been raised and the goal is now set for another $500.

One of the whole-hearted responses came from the Northern Pacific railway shops on Saturday where $117.45 was raised and turned in by the shops including foremen, clerks and store.

This morning saw Clara Lutheran church enter the lists with a donation of $17, and the pastor, Rev. August Samuelson, said the Crosby congregation would also respond.

In order to raise $1,000 all of Crow Wing county must act. Brainerd is doing its part and other sections should also show their response to the appeal.

It is a well established fact that no part of the United States can flourish if some other section is in abject woe and want. It is through this Southland that much tourist travel makes its way to the North. By assisting in the relief work we can aid rehabilitation and that includes re-establishing the farmers and townspeople in the flood path and re-establishing their roadways, bridges, etc.

Saturday brought a telegram, short in nature, but intensely saddening. It mentioned that many of the bodies were coming to the surface. Human bodies were mixed with those of animals, and all that the workers can do is to tie stones to them and sink them in the current. With water all around, there is no place for burial.

A GOOD SELECTION

JUDGE C. W. STANTON of the Bemidji district has been selected to hear the arguments in the attempt to negative the Governor's veto of the bill increasing the salaries of district judges. The salaries of judges of the three big counties and of the Bemidji district were not affected by the bill passed by the legislature, as under a former law the counties of these districts pay $1,500 in addition to the state salary. For this reason Judge Stanton as an outside judge, was selected to hear the case. He is one of the able judges of the states.

It is expected that the case will be carried to the supreme court, regardless of Judge Stanton's decision. The question is whether Good Friday is to be eliminated along with Sunday in the three-day limit allowed the governor to sign or veto bills. The legislature adjourned over Good Friday, and Governor Christianson did not send in his veto until four days after the bill was passed, counting Good Friday. It is a technical point, and some of the ablest attorneys of the state will present arguments on the points in controversy. Judge Stanton, who has a reputation of making prompt decisions, will probably render his opinion within a day or two after the arguments have been concluded.—St. Cloud Journal-Press.

N. P. ANTICIPATES HEAVY TOURIST SEASON

THE Northern Pacific railway, basing its forecast for a heavy summer's tourist business on signs which are regarded as accurate, today is completing arrangements for the opening of the travel season.

Not in years have the travel barometers indicated such a travel trend as is now in prospect. There are factors which are recognized as positive by officials of the railroad in St. Paul, including these:

Arrangements already have been made by hundreds of parties which are to travel to the Pacific Northwest in the late spring and summer. Inquiries which have come to the passenger department from prospective tourists far outnumber those of other years.

Travel bureaus in the Northwest and North Pacific country report that their tourist aid divisions are rushed to capacity even thus early.

Attractive summer excursion rates are being offered by the railroads, stimulating the travel to the "Scenic West."

MAN IS A PYGMY IN THE WORLD

MAN is but a pygmy so far as Nature is concerned. The recent floods and tornadoes all show that when Nature is aroused, man has few remedies and but little protection from the elements.

Take the flood district of the Mississippi and related territory. As stated by Mike Mareca, a concrete dike from Illinois to the Gulf, again as high as the old levees, would be unable to restrain the flood which has unleashed itself and spent its fury on the land.

Tornadoes in several states have added their woe to humanity's suffering, as recorded by today's news dispatches.

Man, with all his inventive genius is unable to withstand the elements when they are abnormally aroused.

THE Dassel Dispatch has well said that if Sears, Roebuck and Company figures that business in the Northwest is good enough to warrant the expenditures that they are making for a building site and their new plant in Minneapolis, the financial condition of this section cannot be so lamentable. The small town merchant should not interpret this move as his death-knell but rather as a proof that business is here and all he has to do is to get it. That means service, goods of quality, sold at fair price, and finally letting the public know that such a combination—service, quality, and price—is here at home.

THE police injunction to observe their clean up week has more punch to it than all the publicity previously accorded the movement. Now if your garbage, or rubbish pile, or ashes mountain or tin can depository is not cleaned up, you will be cited to appear in municipal court and tell your story to the judge. But thanks to appeals previously made in the campaign, it is believed that Brainerd is in a presentable condition and that the police will get but few offenders.

It is an odd thing regarding some of the out of the way roads in this section. They have dried out fairly well in the low places, but one faces danger of miring on hilly points. It seems tops and hillsides have been the last to be thawed out and dried. A man runs the risk of sinking his car to hubs and running board when he drives on a hill road, not carrying heavy travel.

From the famous photoplay, "The Magic Garden."

THE STORY SO FAR

Amaryllis Minton runs away from home to find the love that she has never received. She finds a wonderful garden and a boy who seems lonely too, but whom she loves at once. They play together and Amaryllis is quite happy. The boy's father returns on the second day and learning Amaryllis' identity he calls up her people. While they are coming the two children are in each other's arms in the garden, and when her father arrives Amaryllis meets him with a look of horror, and she turns and runs away.

The boy turned and took one look at him and then threw himself full length in the bed of striped grass, and frantically pulled the long blades together across his ears, so that he could not hear. Alone, little Amaryllis raced down the path and darted into the meadow.

It took some fairly speedy running on the part of a fairly agile policeman to run her down and catch her. He was forced to carry her back. As they recrossed the garden with her and carried her around the house and out to the road, until the last faint echo died away, over and over there came her shrill little cry: "Don't you mind John Guido! I'll come back! I'll come back to you!"

By the time the automobile was reached, Amaryllis had learned that while the touch of the policeman who was carrying her was firm, it was gentle. She had persisted in placing her face against the glass and screaming: "I'll come back!" at the top of her voice until long after the highway had been reached and she knew no one at the little house could hear her.

After they could not hear her, she told the world. Some way she reinforced her soul by reiterating concerning his personal affairs during the past three days.

He had even thought of going to Europe and taking Amaryllis along and trying to find her mother; of trying to make some sort of plea that would bring her back to her home. But the more he thought of this, the more hopeless he knew it was, because in the twelve years that he had been married to Amaryllis' mother had learned to the depths the littleness and the selfishness in her soul, and he had very grave doubts as to whether there was any way in which the ingrained vanity, and greed, and personal exaltation in which she specialized, could be overcome. It would have been the ideal thing to do, but things in this world are seldom ideal. So he laid that idea back on the shelf with the thought that he might better send a personal representative to see exactly where the lady was, and what she was doing, and to learn for sure whether she really was a suitable person to have charge over anything so adorable as Amaryllis.

Exactly when Paul Minton found out that Amaryllis was adorable it would be difficult to say, but one might hazard a guess that he found it out when a dark haired boy of such extreme beauty that he made a startling apparition, dropped at his knees before her and stretched out his arms to her and cried in a broken voice: "Amaryllis, you will kill me with your sweetness!"

Some way, what he had seen and what he had heard set Paul Minton to studying Amaryllis, to looking at her intently, and what he saw was a little girl, sane and normal, beautifully developed, beautiful of face and hands and body, and spoiled to the last degree it was possible to spoil a child. Even when she had wrinkled up her nose and stuck out her tongue and made herself as ugly as ever she could, she her determination. She lay back exhausted on the breast of the policeman and by and by she discovered that an effort was being made by Mr. Paul Minton to take her in to his arms.

She was old enough to know that he was her father. She had lively remembrances of at least the better part of four and a half years when she had seen him daily. Sometimes he had picked her up. Sometimes he had slipped his fingers under her dimpled chin. Sometimes he had put money into her hands concerning the value of which she knew nothing because she never had been privileged to spend money herself. She only knew that it was a thing greatly coveted because the nurses and governesses and the housekeeper and the butler were all so eager to relieve her of it. She knew it was something they wanted very much.

Her great adventure over, her capture made sure, swiftly being carried back to the things she loathed, all the naughtiness and resentment in the heart of Amaryllis boiled to the surface, and when her father reached shaking hands and wanted to take her in his arms, she very promptly made up the horrid face she knew, embellished with twisted, squinted eyes, a wrinkled nose, and a wide opened mouth from which a little red tongue was thrust just as far as it would go and wagged in defiance. Because she had no other refuge, she clung tight to the policeman.

So you can very easily see that between the little white house on the island and his apartments in the big city, Mr. Paul Minton had time a plenty to do considerable thinking. As a matter of fact, he had already had three days of interrupted and agonizing thinking. He had suddenly discovered that there was something in blood; that there was something in parenthood and that however abominably he had failed in the past there might at least be hope for the future.

The automobile had made half the journey before Amaryllis straightened her face and leaned her yellow head against the blue coat of the policeman to rest. The blue of the police uniform is particularly attractive as a background for sun-colored curls and deep blue eyes and a delicately flushed pink skin, and from the bottom of his heart Mr. Paul Minton envied that policeman against whom his little girl leaned her head. He would have given a staggeringly large sum to have had her head laid confidently over his heart. He had thought of practically everything there was to think of

had been adorable, and looking at her, he had not wanted anything in all the world quite so much as he wanted to cover her little face and her hands, and her bare dimpled feet even, with kisses straight from his heart.

And she preferred a policeman to him! Children habitually, as he had known them, had been frightened of policemen. They had been taught that "a policeman would get them" and do something particularly distressful to them, and so it was all the more to be wondered at that Amaryllis preferred the policeman to her father.

He tried to figure it out. He could not remember that he had ever struck the child. He could not remember that he had ever spoken harshly to her or brushed her from his way. He tried to think deeply but he had not the knowledge that would have furnished him the motive for thinking deeply enough to realize that no child resents being punished if it knows that it has been naughty and deserves punishment. The blows that children resent are the blows of anger, of injustice, of intimidation, of hate. No child resents being corrected if it is thoroughly convinced that it deserves correction, if it may rest afterward on a breast that it fully understands is its loving refuge, if there are kisses and condolences and promises of help to make the future better. But having had no experience, Paul Minton could not possibly have known these things.

The first thing that arrested the attention of Amaryllis was when her father leaned forward with instructions to the chauffeur. They were to be taken to Mr. Minton's apartment in the city. Amaryllis' eyes widened suddenly. She began to think. She began to study Paul Minton. Then she discovered the most astounding fact that ever had penetrated her young consciousness. He had been crying. His eyes were all swollen and red and his cheeks were tear-smearly exactly like hers had been many a time when she faced herself in the mirror and talked to the little person there because she had not any one else with whom to talk. Slowly Amaryllis' eyes widened; slowly her mouth fell open. The powerful big man, the handsome man, the beautifully dressed man, the man with the ready laughter on his lips, the man for whom every one stood aside, whom all the helpers about the house feared to displease, the man who earned the money to make things happen in the big city, the man who had never taken her where he lived, was crying! Suddenly she leaned toward him.

Franklin Gave Object

Lesson of Time's Value

One morning when Benjamin Franklin was industriously preparing his newspaper for the press, a man stepped into his shop and consumed an hour or more browsing among the books displayed for sale. Finally, selecting one, he inquired the price from Franklin's helper.

"One dollar," was the boy's reply.

"One dollar!" said the customer.

"Can't you take less than that?"

"No, indeed, one dollar is the price."

A little later, still unsatisfied, the customer accosted the boy again.

"Is Mr. Franklin at home?"

"Yes, he is in the printing office."

The boy called to Mr. Franklin, who was soon behind the counter ready for business.

"Mr. Franklin, what is the lowest you can take for this book?"

"One dollar and a quarter, sir."

"One dollar and a quarter? Why, your boy just said it was only one dollar."

"True," said Franklin, "but I could have better afforded to have taken a dollar than to have been taken out of my office."

"Come, Mr. Franklin, you're joking. What is your lowest price?"

"A dollar and a half!"

"Why, you yourself, Doctor Franklin, only five minutes ago said the price was one dollar and a quarter."

"Yes, my dear sir, but that was five minutes ago, and I might better have taken a dollar and a quarter than lose so much time. My time is money."

The young man took another look at Franklin, quickly paid the dollar and a half, and hastily retreated from the shop to circulate the story of the queer doings of a certain printer and his high-handed way of doing business.—Market for Exchange.

Truly Original

The teacher gave the following assignment to her spelling class: "I have here four words that I want you to use in your own original sentences. They are defeat, defense, detail and deduct."

One little fellow, nicknamed "Sleepy" by his schoolmates because of his lack of fondness for work, drowsily opened his eyes and asked lazily: "Well, won't it be all right if we can use all four of them in one sentence?" On being assured that it was just as well, he returned to his comfortable position.

The next day, when looking over the papers, she was amused but not at all surprised to find the following sentence on Sleepy's paper: "De feat of de duck went over de fence before de tail."

Modern Franklin's Way

What starts a lightning flash, and what determines the path of a lightning bolt through the atmosphere?

A modern disciple of Benjamin Franklin, Dr. V. V. Boys, British physicist, proposes to answer these questions by shooting a rocket up into a thundercloud, to see whether a lightning flash will follow the track of the rocket, either downward to the earth or upward from the earth to the cloud.

Doctor Boys explains that the track of a rocket contains countless electrified atoms which are discharged as the explosive drives the rocket upward. Knowledge of whether lightning would follow such an electrified channel through the air, he says, might reveal many unknown facts about the nature of thunderbolts.—Popular Science Monthly.

Teaching India's Farmers

Farmers of India are being taught modern methods of agriculture. The Bombay government arranged that leading farmers in different parts of the country attend the first Bombay Presidential Agricultural show, which was held recently at Poona, so that they might return home and set examples for their neighbors. In 11 sections of the fair were shown the latest methods and implements for use in different phases of agriculture. One exhibit, called the "Poor Farmer's Stall," showed the cheapest of implements that might be used by the small farmer.

His Trouble

"On the train the other day I met a fellow that I couldn't hardly make out," said Farmer Funtler. "The car was crowded and he took a seat by me. He said he liked farmers better than any other class of men; that they were honest, knew more, had better things to eat, made more money, and enjoyed life better than any other sort of men."

"Of course, he was a swindler!" returned Farmer Fumbigate. "How bad did he stink you?"

"That was the funny part. He didn't want to borrow any money, sell me a phony gold watch, or play any kind of a game of that sort. I couldn't make out anything about him except that he must be crazy. But he didn't look it or act it."—Kansas City Star.

Shepherd's Fear "Devil"

Shepherds in the neighborhood of Machach-Kala, in central Soviet Asia, have gone on strike, declaring that the devil appearing in the form of a gigantic eagle has made their profession hazardous.

They report that in the course of a few days the eagle killed 42 sheep, carrying off the younger victims. The mountain eagles in the vicinity of Machach-Kala are noted for their size and ferocity. In this instance the shepherds were so intimidated by the great bird that they feared to come to the assistance of their flocks.

BRAINERD

25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

May 8, 1902

Word from Joe Slipp who went to Clarkston, Wash., and bought a fruit farm is that he has also taken a timber claim near Marchfeld, Ore., which is worth at least $10,000.

John Tenglund and party went out fishing yesterday and caught some 60 brook trout.

J. N. Waldrup has closed a deal with Ed. White whereby he succeeds to the business conducted by the latter on Front street, west of the opera house. Mr. White has been in business in that location for a long time, but on account of poor health it would be impossible for him to continue.

There was a good lively scrap over on Laurel street last night in which some of the participants got badly used up. One man was arrested and locked up in jail but when his hearing was called for this morning he was not there.

The notes the face value of which amounted to $3,000 stolen from the W. F. Holst warehouse on Front street night before last have been recovered. Some one found them under the East Brainerd bridge all intact. The burglars evidently after discovering that the box taken out contained nothing but notes decided to get rid of them. They had one good trait anyway as some men would have burned them just for meanness.

Purely American Bird

The humming bird is found only on the American continent. It is closely allied to the swift, and there are several hundred species native from Labrador to Patagonia. The humming bird does not exactly move backward, but by the use of the pectoral muscles of the wing beats the air with a rapidity which enables the bird to remain stationary and to make such darting movements that apparently the flight may be backward.

One of the whole-hearted responses came from the Northern Pacific railway shops on Saturday where $117.45 was raised and turned in by the shops including foremen, clerks and store.

This morning saw Clara Lutheran church enter the lists with a donation of $17, and the pastor, Rev. August Samuelson, said the Crosby congregation would also respond.

In order to raise $1,000 all of Crow Wing county must act. Brainerd is doing its part and other sections should also show their response to the appeal.

It is a well established fact that no part of the United States can flourish if some other section is in abject woe and want. It is through this Southland that much tourist travel makes its way to the North. By assisting in the relief work we can aid rehabilitation and that includes re-establishing the farmers and townspeople in the flood path and re-establishing their roadways, bridges, etc.

Saturday brought a telegram, short in nature, but intensely saddening. It mentioned that many of the bodies were coming to the surface. Human bodies were mixed with those of animals, and all that the workers can do is to tie stones to them and sink them in the current. With water all around, there is no place for burial.

A GOOD SELECTION

JUDGE C. W. STANTON of the Bemidji district has been selected to hear the arguments in the attempt to negative the Governor's veto of the bill increasing the salaries of district judges. The salaries of judges of the three big counties and of the Bemidji district were not affected by the bill passed by the legislature, as under a former law the counties of these districts pay $1,500 in addition to the state salary. For this reason Judge Stanton as an outside judge, was selected to hear the case. He is one of the able judges of the states.

It is expected that the case will be carried to the supreme court, regardless of Judge Stanton's decision. The question is whether Good Friday is to be eliminated along with Sunday in the three-day limit allowed the governor to sign or veto bills. The legislature adjourned over Good Friday, and Governor Christianson did not send in his veto until four days after the bill was passed, counting Good Friday. It is a technical point, and some of the ablest attorneys of the state will present arguments on the points in controversy. Judge Stanton, who has a reputation of making prompt decisions, will probably render his opinion within a day or two after the arguments have been concluded.—St. Cloud Journal-Press.

N. P. ANTICIPATES HEAVY TOURIST SEASON

THE Northern Pacific railway, basing its forecast for a heavy summer's tourist business on signs which are regarded as accurate, today is completing arrangements for the opening of the travel season.

Not in years have the travel barometers indicated such a travel trend as is now in prospect. There are factors which are recognized as positive by officials of the railroad in St. Paul, including these:

Arrangements already have been made by hundreds of parties which are to travel to the Pacific Northwest in the late spring and summer. Inquiries which have come to the passenger department from prospective tourists far outnumber those of other years.

Travel bureaus in the Northwest and North Pacific country report that their tourist aid divisions are rushed to capacity even thus early.

Attractive summer excursion rates are being offered by the railroads, stimulating the travel to the "Scenic West."

MAN IS A PYGMY IN THE WORLD

MAN is but a pygmy so far as Nature is concerned. The recent floods and tornadoes all show that when Nature is aroused, man has few remedies and but little protection from the elements. Take the flood district of the Mississippi and related territory. As stated by Mike Mareca, a concrete dike from Illinois to the Gulf, again as high as the old levees, would be unable to restrain the flood which has unleashed itself and spent its fury on the land.

Tornadoes in several states have added their woe to humanity's suffering, as recorded by today's news dispatches.

Man, with all his inventive genius is unable to withstand the elements when they are abnormally aroused.

THE Dassel Dispatch has well said that if Sears, Roebuck and Company figures that business in the Northwest is good enough to warrant the expenditures that they are making for a building site and their new plant in Minneapolis, the financial condition of this section cannot be so lamentable. The small town merchant should not interpret this move as his death-knell but rather as a proof that business is here and all he has to do is to get it. That means service, goods of quality, sold at fair price, and finally letting the public know that such a combination—service, quality, and price—is here at home.

THE police injunction to observe their clean up week has more punch to it than all the publicity previously accorded the movement. Now if your garbage, or rubbish pile, or ashes mountain or tin can depository is not cleaned up, you will be cited to appear in municipal court and tell your story to the judge. But thanks to appeals previously made in the campaign, it is believed that Brainerd is in a presentable condition and that the police will get but few offenders.

It is an odd thing regarding some of the out of the way roads in this section. They have dried out fairly well in the low places, but one faces danger of miring on hilly points. It seems tops and hillsides have been the last to be thawed out and dried. A man runs the risk of sinking his car to hubs and running board when he drives on a hill road, not carrying heavy travel.

THE STORY SO FAR

Amaryllis Minton runs away from home to find the love that she has never received. She finds a wonderful garden and a boy who seems lonely too, but whom she loves at once. They play together and Amaryllis is quite happy. The boy's father returns on the second day and learning Amaryllis' identity he calls up her people. While they are coming the two children are in each other's arms in the garden, and when her father arrives Amaryllis meets him with a look of horror, and she turns and runs away.

The boy turned and took one look at him and then threw himself full length in the bed of striped grass, and frantically pulled the long blades together across his ears, so that he could not hear. Alone, little Amaryllis raced down the path and darted into the meadow.

It took some fairly speedy running on the part of a fairly agile policeman to run her down and catch her. He was forced to carry her back. As they recrossed the garden with her and carried her around the house and out to the road, until the last faint echo died away, over and over there came her shrill little cry: "Don't you mind. John Guido! I'll come back! I'll come back to you!"

By the time the automobile was reached, Amaryllis had learned that while the touch of the policeman who was carrying her was firm, it was gentle. She had persisted in placing her face against the glass and screaming: "I'll come back!" at the top of her voice until long after the highway had been reached and she knew no one at the little house could hear her.

After they could not hear her, she told the world. Some way she reinforced her soul by reiterating concerning his personal affairs during the past three days.

He had even thought of going to Europe and taking Amaryllis along and trying to find her mother; of trying to make some sort of plea that would bring her back to her home. But the more he thought of this, the more hopeless he knew it was, because in the twelve years that he had been married to Amaryllis' mother had learned to the depths the littleness and the selfishness in her soul, and he had very grave doubts as to whether there was any way in which the ingrained vanity, and greed, and personal exaltation in which she specialized, could be overcome. It would have been the ideal thing to do, but things in this world are seldom ideal. So he laid that idea back on the shelf with the thought that he might better send a person representative to see exactly where the lady was, and what she was doing, and to learn for sure whether she really was a suitable person to have charge over anything so adorable as Amaryllis.

Exactly when Paul Minton found out that Amaryllis was adorable it would be difficult to say, but one might hazard a guess that he found it out when a dark haired boy of such extreme beauty that he made a startling apparition, dropped at his knees before her and stretched out his arms to her and cried in a broken voice: "Amaryllis, you will kill me with your sweetness!"

Some way, what he had seen and what he had heard of Paul Minton to studying Amaryllis, to looking at her intently, and what he saw was a little girl, sane and normal, beautifully developed, beautiful of face and hands and body, and spoiled to the last degree it was possible to spoil a child. Even when she had wrinkled up her nose and stuck out her tongue and made herself as ugly as ever she could, she her determination. She lay back exhausted on the breast of the policeman and by and by she discovered that an effort was being made by Mr. Paul Minton to take her into his arms.

She was old enough to know that he was her father. She had lively remembrances of at least the better part of four and a half years when she had seen him daily. Sometimes he had picked her up. Sometimes he had slipped his fingers under her dimpled chin. Sometimes he had put money into her hands concerning the value of which she knew nothing because she never had been privileged to spend money herself. She only knew that it was a thing greatly coveted because the nurses and governesses and the housekeeper and the butler were all so eager to relieve her of it. She knew it was something they wanted very much.

Her great adventure over, her capture made sure, swiftly being carried back to the things she loathed, all the naughtiness and resentment in the heart of Amaryllis boiled to the surface, and when her father reached shaking hands and wanted to take her in his arms, she very promptly made up the horrid face she knew, embellished with twisted, squinted eyes, a wrinkled nose, and a wide opened mouth from which a little red tongue was thrust just as far as it would go and wagged in defiance. Because she had no other refuge, she clung tight to the policeman.

So you can very easily see that between the little white house on the island and his apartments in the big city, Mr. Paul Minton had time aplenty to do considerable thinking. As a matter of fact, he had already had three days of uninterrupted and agonizing thinking. He had suddenly discovered that there was something in blood; that there was something in parenthood and that however abominable he had failed in the past there might at least be hope for the future.

The automobile had made half the journey before Amaryllis straightened her face and leaned her yellow head against the blue coat of the policeman to rest. The blue of the police uniform is particularly attractive as a background for sun-colored curls and deep blue eyes and a delicately flushed pink skin, and from the bottom of his heart Mr. Paul Minton envied that policeman against whom his little girl leaned her head. He would have given a staggeringly large sum to have had her head laid confidently over his heart. He had thought of practically everything there was to think of

Lesson of Time's Value

One morning when Benjamin Franklin was industriously preparing his newspaper for the press, a man stepped into his shop and consumed an hour or more browsing among the books displayed for sale. Finally, selecting one, he inquired the price from Franklin's helper.

"One dollar," was the boy's reply.

"One dollar!" said the customer. "Can't you take less than that?"

"No, indeed, one dollar is the price." A little later, still unsatisfied, the customer accosted the boy again.

"Is Mr. Franklin at home?"

"Yes, he is in the printing office."

The boy called to Mr. Franklin, who was soon behind the counter ready for business.

"Mr. Franklin, what is the lowest you can take for this book?"

"One dollar and a quarter, sir."

"One dollar and a quarter? Why, your boy just said it was only one dollar."

"True," said Franklin, "but I could have better afforded to have taken a dollar than to have been taken out of my office."

"Come, Mr. Franklin, you're joking. What is your lowest price?"

"A dollar and a half."

"Why, you yourself, Doctor Franklin, only five minutes ago said the price was one dollar and a quarter."

"Yes, my dear sir, but that was five minutes ago, and I might better have taken a dollar and a quarter than have lost so much time. My time is money."

The young man took another look at Franklin, quickly paid the dollar and a half, and hastily retreated from the shop to circulate the story of the queer doings of a certain printer and his high-handed way of doing business.—Market for Exchange.

Truly Original

The teacher gave the following assignment to her spelling class: "I have here four words that I want you to use in your own original sentences. They are defeat, defense, detail and deduct."

One little fellow, nicknamed "Sleepy" by his schoolmates because of his lack of fondness for work, drowsily opened his eyes and asked lazily: "Well, won't it be all right if we can use all four of them in one sentence?" On being assured that it was just as well, he returned to his comfortable position.

The next day, when looking over the papers, she was amused but not at all surprised to find the following sentence on Sleepy's paper: "De feat of de duck went over de fence before de tail."

Modern Franklin's Way

What starts a lightning flash, and what determines the path of a lightning bolt through the atmosphere?

A modern disciple of Benjamin Franklin, Dr. V. V. Boys, British physicist, proposes to answer these questions by shooting a rocket up into a thundercloud, to see whether a lightning flash will follow the track of the rocket, either downward to the earth or upward from the earth to the cloud.

Doctor Boys explains that the track of a rocket contains countless electrified atoms which are discharged as the explosive drives the rocket upward. Knowledge of whether lightning would follow such an electrified channel through the air, he says, might reveal many unknown facts about the nature of thunderbolts.—Popular Science Monthly.

Teaching India's Farmers

Farmers of India are being taught modern methods of agriculture. The Bombay government arranged that leading farmers in different parts of the country attend the first Bombay Presidential Agricultural show, which was held recently at Poona, so that they might return home and set examples for their neighbors. In 14 sections of the fair were shown the latest methods and implements for use in different phases of agriculture. One exhibit, called the "Poor Farmer's Stall," showed the cheapest of implements that might be used by the small farmer.

His Trouble

"On the train the other day I met a fellow that I couldn't hardly make out," said Farmer Fumbigate. "The car was crowded and he took a seat by me. He said he liked farmers better than any other class of men; they were honest, knew more, had better things to eat, made more money, and enjoyed life better than any other sort of men."

"Of course, he was a swindler," returned Farmer Fumbigate. "How bad did he sting you?"

"That was the funny part. He didn't want to borrow any money, sell me a phony gold watch, or play any kind of a game of that sort. I couldn't make out anything about him except that he must be crazy. But he didn't look it or act it."—Kansas City Star.

Shepherds Fear "Devil"

Shepherds in the neighborhood of Machach-Kala, in central Soviet Asia, have gone on strike, declaring that the devil appearing in the form of a gigantic eagle has made their profession hazardous.

They report that in the course of a few days the eagle killed 42 sheep carrying off the younger victims. The mountain eagles in the vicinity of Machach-Kala are noted for their size and ferocity. In this instance the shepherds were so intimidated by the great bird that they feared to coze to the assistance of their flocks.

BRAINERD

25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

May 8, 1902

Word from Joe Slipp who went to Clarkston, Wash., and bought a fruit farm is that he has also taken a timber claim near Marchfield, Ore., which is worth at least $10,000.

John Tenglund and party went out fishing yesterday and caught some 60 brook trout.

J. N. Waldrup has closed a deal with Ed. White whereby he succeeds to the business conducted by the latter on Front street, west of the opera house. Mr. White has been in business in that location for a long time, but on account of poor health it would be impossible for him to continue.

There was a good lively scrap over on Laurel street last night in which some of the participants got badly used up. One man was arrested and locked up in jail but when his hearing was called for this morning he was not there.

The notes the face value of which amounted to $5,000 stolen from the W. F. Holst warehouse on Front street night before last have been recovered. Some one found them under the East Brainerd bridge last night. The burglars evidently after discovering that the box taken out contained nothing but notes decided to get rid of them. They had one good trait anyway as some men would have burned them just for meanness.

Purely American Bird

The humming bird is found only on the American continent. It is closely allied to the swift, and there are several hundred species native from Labrador to Patagonia. The humming bird does not exactly move backward, but by the use of the pectoral muscles of the wing beats the air with a rapidity which enables the bird to remain stationary and to make such darting movements that apparently the flight may be backward.

CHICK HAFEY POUNDS OUT 2 HOME RUNS

FLINT RHEM "CO-HERO" HOLDS DOWN BROOKLYN

CARDINALS DEFEAT BROOKLYN
BY SCORE OF
5 TO 1

EDDIE COLLINS' FUMBLE AIDED
CLEVELAND VIC-TORY

(By United Press)

Yesterday's hero — Chick Hafey, left fielder of the Cardinals, proved he was out of place as sixth on the batting order by hitting two home runs and a single in the St. Louis game against Brooklyn. Flint Rhem, Card pitcher, was a "co-hero, holding Brooklyn to two hits. The score was 5 to 1.

Eddie Collins' fumble was a contributing factor to Cleveland's 4 to 2 victory over Philadelphia. Buckeye and Ehman pitched, both allowing eight hits.

A hit meant a run every time for the St. Louis Browns. Although the Senators hit the ball farther and oftener, four Washington pitchers allowed six bases on balls and eight hits, giving St. Louis the game, 8 to 3.

Terry of the Giants hit a double on the first ball thrown by "Lefty" Brillheart, Cubs relief pitcher, and Roush raced in with the winning run in the ninth. The score was: New York, 5; Chicago, 4. The Cubs "gave" the game away with four errors. Webb, Cubs recruit outfielder, added another home run, the sixth, to his collection.

Marty McManus, second baseman for Detroit, distinguished himself by singling cleanly with the bases filled in the ninth. The resulting run won the game for the Tigers against Boston, 3 to 2.

Although a record crowd was in the stands, the Chicago White Sox were forced to accept a shut-out from the New York Yankees. The Sox hit Hoyt nine times for 11 bases but couldn't make the blows count. The Yanks won, 9 to 0. Collins hit a home run.

Milwaukee—Flippin's failure to get an infield grounder in the ninth with two out gave Louisville a 4 to 3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Minneapolis—Rally of the Millers in the ninth fell short and the Columbus Senators won 3 to 2.

St. Paul—Eight hits and four errors gave the Saints seven runs. St. Paul beat the Toledo Mud Hens, 7 to 2.

BASEBALL'S BIG FOUR

Babe Ruth hit a double and a single in four times at bat.

Hornsbly got a double in four attempts.

Cobb was idle because of a suspension by President Johnson.

Tris Speaker made a pair of singles in four tries.

ALBERT LEA AND SHERBURNE WIN OPENING GAME

Albert Lea, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—Baseball fans were treated to an overwhelming victory by Albert Lea over Owatonna Sunday in the opening game of the Southern Minnesota league. The score was 12 to 3. Seeley, star Albert Lea pitcher, started his teammates off with a home run in the first inning.

Fairmont, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—Local fans saw their team defeated in the opening game here Sunday by Sherburne 1 to 0, after a hard-fought pitchers' battle. Crotty, Sherburne hurler, held Fairmont to 5 hits while his teammates scored the only run of the game in the second inning.

Charcoal Formation

Charcoal is the carbonaceous substance left from wood after its other elements have been driven off by heating, without allowing it to undergo combustion. This is done by burning the wood with only a limited supply of air, so that the other elements are consumed while the carbon remains almost undiminished.

TEX RICKARD'S STATUS TO BE DECIDED SOON

FEDERAL COURT AND 2 STATE ATHLETIC COMMISSIONS
ACTING

OUTDOOR BOXING
PROMOTER

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, May 9.—A federal court and two state athletic commissions will probably decide this week what Tex Rickard's status will be this summer as an outdoor boxing promoter. Jack Dempsey's return to the squared arena is involved in one of the controversies.

Of most immediate concern to Rickard is the outcome of the injunction suit brought against him by Walter Taylor, Cleveland promoter, to prevent the Jim Maloney-Tom Sharkey battle set for May 19 at the Yankee stadium. Taylor says he has a prior claim on Maloney for a bout with Johnny Risko. The suit was argued before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in court here last week and the judge promised an early decision, which will probably be this week.

The boxing boards of both New York and Massachusetts have barred Paulino from fighting in those states until he explains, if he can, why he hasn't lived up to a contract Eddie Mack of Boston says he signed with him for a fight with Ed Kelley.

Paulino's manager, Al Mayer, was to appear before the Bay State boxing commission today to try to give a satisfactory explanation. Rickard has already announced that Dempsey's first opponent in his come-back will be Paulino, and at an early date, so unless the New York and the Massachusetts boxing commissions decide with Paulino, Rickard may have to get Dempsey another partner or postpone the first of the Dempsey specials until after the Spaniards has satisfied the Boston promoter.

Decisions are expected this week from both commissions.

Rickard holds the contract for a return bout between Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, and Tiger Flowers. The contract was signed before the fight at Chicago last December when Walker won the decision and title from Flowers. Under the contract, Walker agreed to a return bout if he defeated Flowers. Walker has made plans to sail for Europe on May 17 and Flowers' manager, Walt Miller, intends to stop him if he can. He will appear before the state athletic commission today to ask the commission to prevent Walker from going to Europe before giving Flowers a return bout.

JACK DEMPSEY IN ACTIVE TRAINING

Santa Monica, Calif., May 9.—While Jack Dempsey planned to return to his training camp at Wheeler Hot Springs today, sport writers were enthusiastic about the apparent good condition of the former heavyweight champion of the world.

In his first public ring appearance since he lost the title to Gene Tunney in Philadelphia, Dempsey went three rounds with Tony Fuente here last night to aid the Gables Beach club benefit for the Mississippi river flood relief fund.

Dempsey appeared to be timing his punches well and his condition generally was better than when he lost to Tunney, sport critics at the ringside agreed.

About $9,000 was made from the benefit, it was announced.

Pimlico Racetrack, Baltimore, May 9.—(UP)—Overcast skies with a threat of rain faced the thousands of race followers gathered today for the 37th running of the $50,000 Preakness Stakes.

The weather was expected to make no difference to the 35,000 or more who will crowd the hilltop this afternoon, however. The quality of three-year-olds who will compete makes the race one of the most interesting in years, and except in case of a downpour, the track should be in good shape.

The Whitney entry of Whiskery, Bostonian and Pandora probably will get the bulk of public support and be installed favorite, although the loyal Marylanders will lean heavily toward W. M. Jefford's Man O' War colt, Scapa Flow. A heavy track would boost Scapa Flow's stock, as he is regarded as having mud running ability.

The heavy betting will be on those two. There has been so much talk of Scapa Flow's supposed inability to do his best at the Preakness distance—a mile and three sixteenths—that the odds undoubtedly will be influenced to some extent. Whiskery, the Whisk Broom II-Prudery colt, gave every evidence of being a distance runner when he galloped home five lengths ahead in the Chesapeake Stakes at Havre De Grace recently with plenty of speed to spare after going a mile and a sixteenth.

Thirteen colts and two fillies were listed to start, most of them of such quality that few scratches were expected. The only ones given little chance by the handicappers were Skedaddle and the H. T. Archibald entry of Candy Hog and Crystal Domino.

CHICK HAFEY POUNDS OUT 2 HOME RUNS

FLINT RHEM "CO-HERO" HOLDS DOWN BROOKLYN

CARDINALS DEFEAT BROOKLYN
BY SCORE OF
5 TO 1

EDDIE COLLINS' FUMBLE AIDED
CLEVELAND VIC-TORY

(By United Press)

Yesterday's hero — Chick Hafey, left fielder of the Cardinals, proved he was out of place as sixth on the batting order by hitting two home runs and a single in the St. Louis game against Brooklyn. Flint Rhem, Card pitcher, was a "co-hero," holding Brooklyn to two hits. The score was 5 to 1.

Eddie Collins' fumble was a contributing factor to Cleveland's 4 to 2 victory over Philadelphia. Buckeye and Ehms pitched, both allowing eight hits.

A hit meant a run every time for the St. Louis Browns. Although the Senators hit the ball farther and oftener, four Washington pitchers allowed six bases on balls and eight hits, giving St. Louis the game, 8 to 3.

Terry of the Giants hit a double on the first ball thrown by "Lefty" Brillheart, Cubs relief pitcher, and Roush raced in with the winning run in the ninth. The score was: New York, 5; Chicago, 4. The Cubs "gave" the game away with four errors. Webb, Cubs recruit outfielder, added another home run, the sixth, to his collection.

Marty McManus, second baseman for Detroit, distinguished himself by singling cleanly with the bases filled in the ninth. The resulting run won the game for the Tigers against Boston, 3 to 2.

Although a record crowd was in the stands, the Chicago White Sox were forced to accept a shut-out from the New York Yankees. The Sox hit Hoyt nine times for 11 bases but couldn't make the blows count. The Yanks won, 9 to 0. Collins hit a home run.

Milwaukee—Flippin's failure to get an infield grounder in the ninth with two out gave Louisville a 4 to 3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Minneapolis—Rally of the Millers in the ninth fell short and the Columbus Senators won 3 to 2.

St. Paul—Eight hits and four errors gave the Saints seven runs. St. Paul beat the Toledo Mud Hens, 7 to 2.

BASEBALL'S BIG FOUR

Babe Ruth hit a double and a single in four times at bat.

Hornsby got a double in four attempts.

Cobb was idle because of a suspension by President Johnson.

Tris Speaker made a pair of singles in four tries.

Averages:	AB	H	Pct	Field- ing	Home Runs

ALBERT LEA AND SHERBURNE WIN OPENING GAME

Albert Lea, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—Baseball fans were treated to an overwhelming victory by Albert Lea over Owatonna Sunday in the opening game of the Southern Minnesota league. The score was 12 to 3. Seeley, star Albert Lea pitcher, started his teammates off with a home run in the first inning.

Fairmont, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—Local fans saw their team defeated in the opening game here Sunday by Sherburne 1 to 0, after a hard-fought pitchers' battle. Crotty, Sherburne hurler, held Fairmont to 5 hits while his teammates scored the only run of the game in the second inning.

TEX RICKARD'S STATUS TO BE DECIDED SOON

FEDERAL COURT AND 2 STATE ATHLETIC COMMISSIONS
ACTING

PROMOTER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, May 9.—A federal court and two state athletic commissions will probably decide this week what Tex Rickard's status will be (his summer as an outdoor boxing promoter. Jack Dempsey's return to the squared arena is involved in one of the controversies.

Of most immediate concern to Rickard is the outcome of the injunction suit brought against him by Walter Taylor, Cleveland promoter, to prevent the Jim Maloney-Tom Sharkey battle set for May 19 at the Yankee stadium. Taylor says he has a prior claim on Maloney for a bout with Johnny Risko. The suit was argued before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in court here last week and the judge promised an early decision, which will probably be this week.

The boxing boards of both New York and Massachusetts have barred Paulino from fighting in those states until he explains, if he can, why he hasn't lived up to a contract Eddie Mack of Boston says he signed with him for a fight with Ed Kelley.

Paulino's manager, Al Mayer, was to appear before the Bay State boxing commission today to try to give a satisfactory explanation. Rickard has already announced that Dempsey's first opponent in his come-back will be Paulino, and at an early date, so unless the New York and the Massachusetts boxing commissions decide with Paulino, Rickard may have to get Dempsey another partner or postpone the first of the Dempsey specials until after the Spaniards has satisfied the Boston promoter.

Decisions are expected this week from both commissions.

Rickard holds the contract for a return bout between Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, and Tiger Flowers. The contract was signed before the fight at Chicago last December when Walker won the decision and title from Flowers. Under the contract, Walker agreed to a return bout if he defeated Flowers.

Walker has made plans to sail for Europe on May 17 and Flowers' manager, Walt Miller, intends to stop him if he can. He will appear before the state athletic commission today to ask the commission to prevent Walker from going to Europe before giving Flowers a return bout.

JACK DEMPSEY IN ACTIVE TRAINING

Santa Monica, Calif., May 9.—While Jack Dempsey planned to return to his training camp at Wheeler Hot Springs today, sport writers were enthusiastic about the apparent good condition of the former heavyweight champion of the world.

In his first public ring appearance since he lost the title to Gene Tunney in Philadelphia, Dempsey went three rounds with Tony Fuente here last night to aid the Gables Beach club benefit for the Mississippi river flood relief fund.

Dempsey appeared to be timing his punches well and his condition generally was better than when he lost to Tunney, sport critics at the ring-side agreed.

About $9,000 was made from the benefit, it was announced.

and $50,000 property damage done by a tornado east and south of Auxvasse late last night.

The dead are Mrs. Robert Biggs, 65; Henry Hamilton; the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Culver. Auxvasse itself missed the full fury of the storm and little damage was done there, but the winds uprooted trees, demolished farm buildings and tore down communication lines in the surrounding agricultural territory.

Houses were unroofed at New Florence. Damage was also reported at Fulton, but its extent was unknown as there were no lines of communication. Fulton is 25 miles south of here, 12 miles farther than Auxvasse.

Injured from the Auxvasse region were brought to the Audrain hospital here for treatment. Many were slightly hurt by flying debris.

Omaha, Neb., May 9.—A woman was killed at Sioux City, Ia., and property damage will be considerable as a result of tornadoes, wind, rain and snow storms which lashed Nebraska and eastern Iowa Sunday and Sunday night.

The winds beat hardest in western Nebraska, bringing torrential downpours, snow and lowering temperatures in their wake. Transportation was seriously affected in all western counties, and power and communication lines were generally crippled.

From six to eight inches of snow, accompanied by a bitter northwest wind, was reported all the way from Sidney, Neb., to Cheyenne, Wyo. Temperatures had dropped to 15 and 18 degrees.

SNOW AND WIND
STORM NEAR DENVER

Denver, Colo., May 9.—Efforts were being made today to re-establish communication and transportation facilities in the eastern Rocky Mountain region which were crippled by a snow and wind storm of near cyclonic proportions.

Telephone and telegraph wires in eastern Colorado, western Kansas and western Nebraska were still down early this morning. Roads in some sections were blocked with snow and it was impossible to determine the extent of damage to crops and property.

No loss of life had been reported.

STORMS BEGAN SATURDAY,
REACHED TEXAS MONDAY

Kansas City, Mo., May 9.—Ripping through peaceful little villages of Missouri, Kansas and Texas, tornadoes during the week spread destruction over a vast area, brought death—according to latest reports as yet incomplete—to at least 47 persons, and injuries to more than 300 more.

The storms began late Saturday night, in Kansas, spreading to Missouri last night, and hit in Texas early this morning. Texas suffered the worst of the three states, with 26 reported dead there and an injured list running to a hundred or more.

The Kansas tornado started near the Oklahoma line, striking at Medicine Lodge, picturesque little town of frontier days. From Medicine Lodge, where two were killed, several injured and a great deal of property damage done, the storm swept on to the north and east.

Inman, East Hutchinson, Nashville, Medora and several other villages felt the hand of the tornado. Deaths were reported from the towns until a toll mounted to 11. The injured list was increasing today as more detailed reports came in.

Central Missouri was the next to contribute to the death, injury and damage list. Striking at Eldon, peacefully nestled in the foothills of Missouri's Ozarks, the blast tore through the countryside for 50 miles or more, adding 10 to its feast of dead. Wire facilities to this area are totally gone and only reports taken to Jefferson City give detail of the damage and injured and death list there.

It was in Nevada, Texas, where the storm showed its fury at its worst. Early this morning, while the village, with its 200 dwellers, was sleeping, the wind crashed through, razing forty per cent of the buildings in the town and taking the life from 17 of the residents.

The injured at Nevada will number a hundred at least, according to victims of the storm taken to hospitals in Dallas.

Garland, Texas, sorrowed over nine dead, with a score or more injured. Garland escaped the full fury of the twister.

Property damage will mount to more than $2,000,000, it was indicated. While the death list in Kansas was smaller than that of Texas, it is believed damage in the Sunflower state will be the highest, as the storm was sustained over a greater area.

Rehabilitation work was started immediately. No sooner had the injuries been checked up this morning than work was begun at clearing away the debris to permit of building anew.

In the midst of the sorrowing, there rang the blows of hammers as the three states—all of which have nearly become inured to these recurring tragedies this spring—prepared to again turn to reconstruction.

A marooned family of flood refugees with all their worldly goods, unloading at a Red Cross concentration camp in St. Francis County, Arkansas. Insets show George E. Scott, directing National Headquarters, American Red Cross, and Miss Elizabeth G. Foz, Red Cross Nursing Advisor for flood area.

VETERAN executives of the American Red Cross are directing its activities during the emergency created by Mississippi river flood.

George E. Scott, of Chicago, a member of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross and one of its war-time leaders, assumed charge of National Headquarters when Acting Chairman James L. Fieser was called into the field. Mr. Scott took over this duty as chairman of a special committee appointed by Judge John

Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, prior to the judge's departure to attend Red Cross conferences abroad, this special committee being intended for service in event of emergencies arising during Chairman Payne's absence.

During the World War, Mr. Scott was General Manager of the Red Cross under the War Council, and as a member of the Central Committee, which is the governing body of the Red Cross, he is thoroughly familiar with present Red Cross service. He is Vice President of the American Steel Foundries Company.

Miss Elizabeth Gordon Fox, Director of Public Health Nursing, American Red Cross, is Nursing Advisor for all nursing service in the Mississippi river flood area.

She is nationally known in nursing circles of the United States because of her work as National Director of the Red Cross Public Health Nursing Service as well as her activities in the general field of nursing.

Fair Gasoline Prices

The present price of gasoline in Brainerd in our opinion is exorbitant. We feel that the continued maintenance of this exorbitant price by the oil companies represented in Brainerd has had a bad effect on all lines of business.

We, as dealers, have endeavored for some time to bring about a reduction in the the tank wagon price, but without success.

Being determined, however, that the present margin for the distributors warrants a reduction, we announce that; will be established by us at our Service Station, which is actual cost price to us. This price will be maintained by us as long as is necessary to bring about a general reduction in Brainerd gasoline prices, or, until such time as seems advisable to prevent too great a loss on our part, should the oil companies refuse to drop the tank wagon prices.

Effective Immediately a Price of 19.1c per Gallon

The dead are Mrs. Robert Biggs, 65; Henry Hamilton; the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Culver. Auxvasse itself missed the full fury of the storm and little damage was done there, but the winds uprooted trees, demolished farm buildings and tore down communication lines in the surrounding agricultural territory.

Houses were unroofed at New Florence. Damage was also reported at Fulton, but its extent was unknown as there were no lines of communication. Fulton is 25 miles south of here, 12 miles farther than Auxvasse.

Injured from the Auxvasse region were brought to the Audrain hospital here for treatment. Many were slightly hurt by flying debris.

Omaha, Neb., May 9.—A woman was killed at Sioux City, Ia., and property damage will be considerable as a result of tornadoes, wind, rain and snow storms which lashed Nebraska and eastern Iowa Sunday and Sunday night.

The winds beat hardest in western Nebraska, bringing torrential downpours, snow and lowering temperatures in their wake. Transportation was seriously affected in all western counties, and power and communication lines were generally crippled.

From six to eight inches of snow, accompanied by a bitter northwest wind, was reported all the way from Sidney, Neb., to Cheyenne, Wyo. Temperatures had dropped to 15 and 18 degrees.

SNOW AND WIND
STORM NEAR DENVER

Denver, Colo., May 9.—Efforts were being made today to re-establish communication and transportation facilities in the eastern Rocky Mountain region which were crippled by a snow and wind storm of near cyclonic proportions.

Telephone and telegraph wires in eastern Colorado, western Kansas and western Nebraska were still down early this morning. Roads in some sections were blocked with snow and it was impossible to determine the extent of damage to crops and property.

No loss of life had been reported.

STORMS BEGAN SATURDAY,
REACHED TEXAS MONDAY

Kansas City, Mo., May 9.—Ripping through peaceful little villages of Missouri, Kansas and Texas, tornadoes during the week spread destruction over a vast area, brought death—according to latest reports as yet incomplete—to at least 47 persons, and injuries to more than 300 more. The storms began late Saturday night, in Kansas, spreading to Missouri last night, and hit in Texas early this morning. Texas suffered the worst of the three states, with 26 reported dead there and an injured list running to a hundred or more.

The Kansas tornado started near the Oklahoma line, striking at Medicine Lodge, picturesque little town of frontier days. From Medicine Lodge, where two were killed, several injured and a great deal of property damage done, the storm swept on to the north and east.

Inman, East Hutchinson, Nashville, Medora and several other villages felt the hand of the tornado. Deaths were reported from the towns until a toll mounted to 11. The injured list was increasing today as more detailed reports came in.

Central Missouri was the next to contribute to the death, injury and damage list. Striking at Eldon, peacefully nestled in the foothills of Missouri's Ozarks, the blast tore through the countryside for 50 miles or more, adding 10 to its feast of dead. Wire facilities to this area are totally gone and only reports taken to Jefferson City give detail of the damage and injured and death list there.

It was in Nevada, Texas, where the storm showed its fury at its worst. Early this morning, while the village, with its 200 dwellers, was sleeping, the wind crashed through, razing forty per cent of the buildings in the town and taking the life from 17 of the residents.

The injured at Nevada will number a hundred at least, according to victims of the storm taken to hospitals in Dallas.

Garland, Texas, sorrowed over nine dead, with a score or more injured. Garland escaped the full fury of the twister.

Property damage will mount to more than $2,000,000, it was indicated. While the death list in Kansas was smaller than that of Texas, it is believed damage in the Sunflower state will be the highest, as the storm was sustained over a greater area.

Rehabilitation work was started immediately. No sooner had the injuries been checked up this morning than work was begun at clearing away the debris to permit of building anew.

In the midst of the sorrowing, there rang the blows of hammers as the three states—all of which have nearly become injured to these recurring tragedies this spring—prepared to again turn to reconstruction.

VETERAN executives of the American Red Cross are directing its activities during the emergency created by Mississippi river flood.

George E. Scott, of Chicago, a member of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross and one of its war-time leaders, assumed charge of National Headquarters when Acting Chairman James L. Fieser was called into the field. Mr. Scott took over this duty as chairman of a special committee appointed by Judge John

Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, prior to the judge's departure to attend Red Cross conferences abroad, this special committee being intended for service in event of emergencies arising during Chairman Payne's absence.

During the World War, Mr. Scott was General Manager of the Red Cross under the War Council, and as a member of the Central Committee, which is the governing body of the Red Cross, he is thoroughly familiar with present Red Cross service. He is Vice President of the American Red Cross Foundries Company.

Miss Elizabeth Gordon Fox, Director of Public Health Nursing, American Red Cross, is Nursing Advisor for all nursing service in the Mississippi river flood area.

Fair Gasoline Prices

The present price of gasoline in Brainerd in our opinion is exorbitant. We feel that the continued maintenance of this exorbitant price by the oil companies represented in Brainerd has had a bad effect on all lines of business.

We, as dealers, have endeavored for some time to bring about a reduction in the the tank wagon price, but without success.

Being determined, however, that the present margin for the distributors warrants a reduction, we announce that:

Effective Immediately a Price of 19.1c per Gallon

will be established by us at our Service Station, which is actual cost price to us. This price will be maintained by us as long as is necessary to bring about a general reduction in Brainerd gasoline prices, or, until such time as seems advisable to prevent too great a loss on our part, should the oil companies refuse to drop the tank wagon prices.

MUNICIPAL COURT CASES

One Case Charging Sale of Liquor; One Charged Maintaining Nuisance

JUDGE WARNER PRESIDES

Case Charging Reckless Driving Dismissed by Request

Three cases were heard in municipal court Saturday before Judge J. H. Warner.

Earl Ottus, in custody of the sheriff, was arraigned on a charge of the sale of intoxicating liquor. He waived examination and bail was fixed at $500 for his appearance in district court not later than 9 a. m. May 9. He was released on bail.

Liisa Niemela, charged with maintaining a nuisance, was arraigned, pleaded guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs or serve 30 days in the county jail. The fine was paid. A charge of selling intoxicating liquor against the same defendant was dismissed at the request of County Attorney W. F. Wieland.

In a case continued from April 25, George E. Ericson, Jr., charged with reckless driving, was dismissed at the request of the city attorney.

Court Proceedings Monday Morning Two cases were brought before Judge J. H. Warner in municipal court this morning.

In the unlawful detainer action brought by Lida Spencer against Clarence and Mary Spencer, Judge Warner ordered the case certified to the district court on account of land titles involved. Ryan, Ryan & Ryan represented the plaintiff with Wieland & Sullivan appearing for the defendants.

Walter and Edwin Zetterwall, Northeast Brainerd boys, were arraigned on a charge of petit larceny. Walter Zetterwall entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued to Tuesday, May 11, at 10 a. m. Edwin, the other defendant, was found to be a minor 17 years of age and was certified to the juvenile court. The defendants were represented by W. J. Swanson of the firm of Swanson & Swanson.

New Wealth

"The motor industry, directly and indirectly, has been the greatest single producer of new wealth in America for a quarter of a century," says Harper Leech.

The automobile has come to be a symbol of prosperity, not only among individuals, but among the nations of the world, and it is significant that in number of automobiles the United States ranks first.

The manufacture of automobiles and the manufacture of fuel to feed them are interdependent industries. Without gasoline the 23,000,000 motor cars and trucks in America would be useless machines.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has had an important part in the growth of the motor industry and the production of new wealth in this country.

By providing gasoline and lubricating oil to supply the needs of the motor vehicles of the Middle West, it has performed a necessary share of the work of building up the giant motor transportation system which has given jobs to millions—speeded up business—created new wealth—and raised the standards of living.

Every day on all the highways of the ten states of the Middle West the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is helping to make the wheels go round—wheels of business and wheels of pleasure.

The business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a fundamental factor in the progress of the Middle West, intimately related to the lives of its thirty million people.

In carrying on its work of service, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to pay for and properly utilize a continuously improving standard of labor—providing well-paid jobs for thousands of men and women whose loyal work makes possible the success of the business.

As a result of its able and efficient management, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to produce new wealth from old, returning reasonable profits on the money invested in the Company's stock by its 50,000 shareholders, not one of whom owns as much as 5 1/4% of the total.

In addition to increasing the prosperity of millions of individuals in the Middle West, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) adds much to the wealth of the government, federal, state and municipal, through the taxes it pays.

The motor cars that throng the highways of the Middle West are symbols of new wealth. The torch of service and the Red Crown discs that dot those highways are signs of the new prosperity which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has helped to create.

"The motor industry, directly and indirectly, has been the greatest single producer of new wealth in America for a quarter of a century," says Harper Leech.

The automobile has come to be a symbol of prosperity, not only among individuals, but among the nations of the world, and it is significant that in number of automobiles the United States ranks first.

The manufacture of automobiles and the manufacture of fuel to feed them are interdependent industries. Without gasoline the 23,000,000 motor cars and trucks in America would be useless machines.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has had an important part in the growth of the motor industry and the production of new wealth in this country.

By providing gasoline and lubricating oil to supply the needs of the motor vehicles of the Middle West, it has performed a necessary share of the work of building up the giant motor transportation system which has given jobs to millions—speeded up business—created new wealth—and raised the standards of living.

Every day on all the highways of the ten states of the Middle West the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is helping to make the wheels go round—wheels of business and wheels of pleasure.

The business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a fundamental factor in the progress of the Middle West, intimately related to the lives of its thirty million people.

In carrying on its work of service, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to pay for and properly utilize a continuously improving standard of labor—providing well-paid jobs for thousands of men and women whose loyal work makes possible the success of the business.

As a result of its able and efficient management, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to produce new wealth from old, returning reasonable profits on the money invested in the Company's stock by its 50,000 shareholders, not one of whom owns as much as 5 1/4% of the total.

In addition to increasing the prosperity of millions of individuals in the Middle West, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) adds much to the wealth of the government, federal, state and municipal, through the taxes it pays.

The motor cars that throng the highways of the Middle West are symbols of new wealth. The torch of service and the Red Crown discs that dot those highways are signs of the new prosperity which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has helped to create.

MRS. SNYDER
PICTURED AS A SERPENT

ATTRACTED GRAY IRRESISTIBLY
TO HER GLISTENING
COILS

ATTORNEY CLAIMS SHE ALONE
STRUCK BLOWS KILLING
HER HUSBAND

Long Island City, May 9.—(UP)—
The Snyder case went to the jury at 3:01 p. m.

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Courtroom, Long Island City, May 9.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder today was pictured as a serpent attracting Judd Gray irresistibly to her glistening coils—and then William Millard, the attorney for Gray who thus described her, charged that his client had escaped the charm the last moment through her own blunder.

Mrs. Snyder had left poison in her home on the night Gray came to complete the plot to kill her husband, Albert Snyder, Millard charged in summing up to the jury at the trial of Gray and Mrs. Snyder.

Gray drank it and only by imbibing whiskey was he able to save his own life, Millard said.

Thus, when the time came for him to strike Snyder with a sashweight he was unable to do it, the attorney went on.

Ruth Snyder alone struck the blows which made her husband unconscious, it was she who threw chloroform on his pillow; it was she who finally caused his death by tightening picture wire around his neck, Millard said.

A crowd that jammed every inch of the close, murky courtroom heard Millard tell a new story of the murder night. The case was expected to be before the jury by tonight.

"When Ruth Snyder was ready, Judd Gray struck," the attorney said.
"But Gray never struck Albert Snyder. He may have thought that he did, but he did not."

"You remember Dr. Neill, the medical examiner, who testified that none of the blows fractured Snyder's skull and none of the blows could have caused death?"

"You remember when Dana Wallace, her attorney, asked Gray to show you how he had held the sash-weight, he took it in both hands.
Any blow such as he showed you would have fractured a skull."

"No, Albert Snyder was struck by a woman while Gray was struggling with the husband. He cried out
'momie, for God's sake, help me' and she ran to the two men and picked up the fallen weight."

The man whose mind she had sapped for months upon months by over-indulgence in drink and late hours failed her at the last moment, Millard told the jurors.

Millard closed his argument at 11:38 after speaking an hour and a half. A short recess then was taken.

Millard closed his argument at was termed, "the most nonsensical romancing I have ever heard," during summarization by Dana Wallace, Mrs.
Snyder's attorney.

"The attorney had gone far afield in attempting to mislead a jury.
Thank God for Gray's sworn testimony to the contrary," Wallace said.

FEARS FELT FOR SAFETY OF NUNGESSER

had picked an unfavorable time as they could have chosen except by flying in the teeth of a general storm, for their trip.

Until mid-morning word of word from the aviators rested mainly with ships at sea and particularly the ice patrol boats Tampa and Modoc off the Grand Banks, and with the lookouts maintained by the United Press and other agencies in Newfoundland and in Nova Scotia. Radio stations, both amateur and public, were transmitting constant weather reports and querying ships and remote land stations for any information.

If the aviators were still in flight, and had not been forced down, in some part of the Atlantic, after mid-morning it was more probable they would be seen off the New England coast and lookouts began their watch in that vicinity.

Few more picturesque characters fly than Nungesser and Gail. Nungesser, famous as one of France's heroes of the war, was wounded a score of times, had undergone 37 surgical operations and part of his skull is an aluminum plate, put in by surgeons to cover a fracture. Gail, whose glory in the war was only slightly less than that of Nungesser, has but one eye and he wears a black monocle to cover the eye-socket.

Nungesser is 35 years old and Gail 45. They are much alike in temperament, silent and under stress, not excitable. The calm manner in which they took off, with a laconic good-bye to their friends and then 10 miles out dropped the landing gear of their plane, the only means they would have of alighting on land should they reach North America, was typical of them.

The two men sit almost side by side in the plane. Nungesser is the pilot. He sits at his controls a little forward of the position of Gail's seat.
He cannot change his position. Gail

Billie Dove and Ben Lyon in "The Tender Hour"

Billie Dove and Ben Lyon Ideal Lovers in "The Tender Hour" Billie Dove and Ben Lyon make an ideal team as the featured players in "The Tender Hour," the first is the navigator and he can move and work at his instruments with a little more freedom than Nungesser.

Neither could get at the engine, except by a miracle, as gasoline tanks rest between the pilots' compartment and the motor.

They carry an emergency supply of concentrated food, hot coffee, wine and stimulants, including a preparation designed to prevent them falling asleep.

The plane is a levasseur biplane, painted white. On the fuselage is painted in black the skull and cross-bones under a coffin, flanked by two candles, which was the grim insignia of Nungesser's squadron of aviators during the war. The French tricolor also adorns the plane.

The motor is rated at 450 horsepower but in an emergency and if in good order, could develop 525 horsepower, it was found in tests. The normal average speed is 100 miles per hour but 115 can be reached with favorable winds and other conditions.

The plane is known as the marine type, in that its body is so built that it is waterproof and could ride a moderate sea for a short time, depending upon weather conditions, without danger to those aboard. It can land on water but, because it carries no pontoons, cannot take off excepting from land with landing gear which was dropped when the flight started.

The flight is made without any protective patrol other than the courtesy patrol afforded by government and private shipping lighthouse and radio stations.

If the flight succeeds it will set a record for overseas flight. The present record is held by Commander Rodgers and his men who flew nearly to Honolulu in the U. S. navy's projected trans-Pacific flight from San Francisco. They fell some 200 miles short of their goal in the Hawaiian Islands.

Great Man's Influence

We cannot look, however imperfec-tly, upon a great man without gaining something by him. He is the living life-fountain, which it is good and pleasant to be near; the light which enlightens, which has enlightened the darkness of the world; and this not as a kindly lamp only, but rather as a natural luminary, shining by the gift of Heaven; a flowing life-fountain, as I say, of native, original insight, of manhood and heroic nobleness, in whose radiance all souls feel that it is well with them.—Carlyle.

Father to the Man

The attitude toward the head of the house varies in different homes. A child's opinion of a parent can generally be accepted at face value.

One evening a guest in a home wished to induce the somewhat timid three-year-old daughter to say a few words. Several attempts to carry on a conversation had failed. Finally the guest, pointing to the child's father, asked: "Who is that man over there?"

"My father isn't a man," said the child. "He is just a great big boy."

Skin Game

Johanne had been scolded for playing with a little colored boy of his acquaintance. One day while watching his mother pare potatoes, he said:
"Mother, I like Arthur so much.
Can't we peel him so I can play with him?"

Grandstands Packed With Yelling
Fans Are in "Slide, Kelly, Slide"

A great grandstand in New York, filled with thousands of yelling fans
—and the two most famous baseball teams in America battling in grim earnest—this is the mighty background for "Slide, Kelly Slide," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new baseball picture playing at the Lyceum theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

The recent World Series furnished the setting. Cameras were sent from the studios and set up during the New York games, and William
Haines, hero of the story, donned Yankee uniform and appeared with the New Yorkers against the St.
Louis Cardinals, for the intimate scenes in the picture.

RED WING MAN FOUND DEAD

NOTE IN HIS HOTEL ROOM RE-FERRED TO "BROKEN HEART"

St. Paul, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—
An autopsy was to be held today to determine the cause of death to Edward Tibbits, 55, said to be formerly of Red Wing, Minn. He was found dead in his room here early Sunday by Mrs. L. Sullivan, proprietor of a rooming house.

Tibbits left a note relating the causes of a "broken heart." He is survived by two children and a divorced wife who reside at Red Wing.

John J. Schneller, 84, Civil war veteran, was found dead from asphyxiation Sunday at a hotel here.
Police believe he accidentally left a gas jet open, resulting in his death while he was asleep.

Getting the Days Placed

Buster, age three, is trying to learn the days of the week.
Almost every morning his first question is, "Mother, what kind of a day is this?"

He also has a habit of expressing his views in the form of wishes. Recently his mother found him in possession of her fountain pen. When she took it from him he studied a moment and then said: "I wish I had a mother what would not take pens away from people when they want to mark on magazines."

Tooth Caused Rattle

An annoying rattle that had baffled automobile mechanics, both professional and amateur, caused Harry A.
Sattler of Rye, N. Y., to have his new car overhauled. Nothing wrong was found, but the rattle persisted. Then, stepping into his machine one day, Mr.
Sattler noticed a bit of gold glittering in the sun. It proved to be a peg attached to a perfectly good false tooth which had lodged in a cavity beneath the floor board. When the tooth was extracted the rattle stopped.

Bear Suffocated in Tree

After sawing through a large cedar tree stump near Revelstoke, B. C., two ranchers were amazed to discover that they had decapitated a bear. Evidence showed that bruin had entered through a hole at the roots of the tree. Scratching the rotting wood inside, the animal released enough chips to block the hole and cut off his air supply. The body was in a rolled-up posture, suggesting that he had been attempting a turn when he died through suffocation.

How Thin Women Gain
5 Pounds in 30 Days

Ask Johnson's Pharmacy, Economy
Drug Co. or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good, healthy, solid flesh, and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, all druggists are authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

One thin woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine—60 tablets—60 cents. The
"just as good" imitations aren't enough for you.

MRS. SNYDER PICTURED AS A SERPENT

TO HER GLISTENING
COILS

ATTORNEY CLAIMS SHE ALONE
STRUCK BLOWS KILLING
HER HUSBAND

Long Island City, May 9.—(UP)—The Snyder case went to the jury at 3:01 p. m.

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Courtroom, Long Island City, May 9.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder today was pictured as a serpent attracting Judd Gray irresistibly to her glistening coils—and then William Millard, the attorney for Gray who thus described her, charged that his client had escaped the charm the last moment through her own blunder.

Mrs. Snyder had left poison in her home on the night Gray came to complete the plot to kill her husband, Albert Snyder, Millard charged in summing up to the jury at the trial of Gray and Mrs. Snyder.

Gray drank it and only by imbibing whiskey was he able to save his own life, Millard said.

Thus, when the time came for him to strike Snyder with a sashweight he was unable to do it, the attorney went on.

Ruth Snyder alone struck the blows which made her husband unconscious, it was she who threw chloroform on his pillow; it was she who finally caused his death by tightening picture wire around his neck, Millard said.

A crowd that jammed every inch of the close, murky courtroom heard Millard tell a new story of the murder night. The case was expected to be before the jury by tonight.

"When Ruth Snyder was ready, Judd Gray struck," the attorney said. "But Gray never struck Albert Snyder. He may have thought that he did, but he did not."

"You remember Dr. Neale, the medical examiner, who testified that none of the blows fractured Snyder's skull and none of the blows could have caused death?"

"You remember when Dana Wallace, her attorney, asked Gray to show you how he had held the sashweight, he took it in both hands. Any blow such as he showed you would have fractured a skull."

"No, Albert Snyder was struck by a woman while Gray was struggling with the husband. He cried out 'momsie, for God's sake, help me' and she ran to the two men and picked up the fallen weight."

The man whose mind she had sapped for months upon months by over-indulgence in drink and late hours failed her at the last moment, Millard told the jurors.

Millard closed his argument at 11:38 after speaking an hour and a half. A short recess then was taken.

"The attorney had gone far afield in attempting to mislead a jury. Thank God for Gray's sworn testimony to the contrary," Wallace said.

had picked as unfavorable a time as they could have chosen except by flying in the teeth of a general storm, for their trip.

Until mid-morning hope of word from the aviators rested mainly with ships at sea and particularly the ice patrol boats Tampa and Modoc off the Grand Banks, and with the look-outs maintained by the United Press and other agencies in Newfoundland and in Nova Scotia.

Radio stations, both amateur and public, were transmitting constant weather reports and querying ships and remote land stations for any information.

If the aviators were still in flight, and had not been forced down in some part of the Atlantic, after mid-morning it was more probable they would be seen off the New England coast and lookouts began their watch in that vicinity.

Few more picturesque characters fly than Nungesser and Coli. Nungesser, famous as one of France's heroes of the war, was wounded a score of times, had undergone 37 surgical operations and part of his skull is an aluminum plate, put in by surgeons to cover a fracture. Coli, whose glory in the war was only slightly less than that of Nungesser, has but one eye and he wears a black monocle to cover the eye-socket.

Nungesser is 35 years old and Coli 45. They are much alike in temperament, silent and under stress, not excitable. The calm manner in which they took off, with a laconic good-bye to their friends and then 10 miles out dropped the landing gear of their plane, the only means they would have of alighting on land should they reach North America, was typical of them.

The two men sit almost side by side in the plane. Nungesser is the pilot. He sits at his controls a little forward of the position of Coli's seat. He cannot change his position. Coli is the navigator and he can move and work at his instruments with a little more freedom than Nungesser.

Neither could get at the engine, except by a miracle, as gasoline tanks rest between the pilots' compartment and the motor.

They carry an emergency supply of concentrated food, hot coffee, wine and stimulants, including a preparation designed to prevent them falling asleep.

The plane is a leviathan biplane, painted white. On the fuselage is painted in black the skull and crossbones under a coffin, flanked by two candles, which was the grim insignia of Nungesser's squadron of aviators during the war. The French tricolor also adorns the plane.

The motor is rated at 450 horse power but in an emergency and if in good order, could develop 525 horse power, it was found in tests. The normal average speed is 100 miles per hour but 115 can be reached with favorable winds and other conditions.

The plane is known as the marine type, in that its body is so built that it is waterproof and could ride a moderate sea for a short time, depending upon weather conditions, without danger to those aboard. It can land on water but, because it carries no pontoons, cannot take off excepting from land with landing gear which was dropped when the flight started.

The flight is made without any protective patrol other than the courtesy patrol afforded by government and private shipping lighthouse and radio stations.

If the flight succeeds it will set a record for overseas flight. The present record is held by Commander Rodgers and his men who flew nearly to Honolulu in the U. S. navy's projected trans-Pacific flight from San Francisco. They fell some 200 miles short of their goal in the Hawaiian Islands.

He sent telegrams to all his democratic colleagues, through his secretary here, urging them to emulate his example in urging upon the president a call for an extra session.

The "magnitude of the disaster and the extent of suffering demand government action," the senator's message relayed from Excelsior Springs, Mo., said.

CAPT. C. W. KELLY, DULUTH ARCHITECT, DIED TODAY

Duluth, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—Capt. Clyde W. Kelly, commander of the U. S. naval reserve forces in Minnesota and a prominent Duluth architect, died at a local hospital here last night.

Kelly succumbed to the effects of a brief illness.

Great Man's Influence

We cannot look, however imperfectly, upon a great man without gaining something by him. He is the living life-fountain, which it is good and pleasant to be near; the light which enlightens, which has enlightened the darkness of the world; and this not as a kindly lamp only, but rather as a natural luminary, shining by the gift of Heaven; a flowing light-fountain, as I say, of native, original insight, of manhood and heroic nobleness, in whose radiance all souls feel that it is well with them.—Carlyle.

Father to the Man

The attitude toward the head of the house varies in different homes. A child's opinion of a parent can generally be accepted at face value.

One evening a guest in a home wished to induce the somewhat timid three-year-old daughter to say a few words. Several attempts to carry on a conversation had failed. Finally the guest, pointing to the child's father, asked: "Who is that man over there?"

"My father isn't a man," said the child. "He is just a great big boy."

Skin Game

Johnnie had been scolded for playing with a little colored boy of his acquaintance. One day while watching his mother pare potatoes, he said: "Mother, I like Arthur so much. Can't we peel him so I can play with him?"

Grandstands Packed With Yelling Fans Are in "Slide, Kelly, Slide"

A great grandstand in New York, filled with thousands of yelling fans—and the two most famous baseball teams in America battling in grim earnest—this is the mighty background for "Slide, Kelly, Slide," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new baseball picture playing at the Lyceum theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

The picture is a leviathan biplane, painted white. On the fuselage is painted in black the skull and crossbones under a coffin, flanked by two candles, which was the grim insignia of Nungesser's squadron of aviators during the war. The French tricolor also adorns the plane.

MILL CITY VOTERS NOMINATE MEN FOR CITY OFFICES

Minneapolis, May 9.—(UP)—Voters of Minneapolis today are nominating candidates for city offices and are to pick 46 persons out of a total of 129 to make the final race June 13.

Mayor George E. Leach is opposed by Fred Ossana, Harry Lund, Fred McMillan and O. J. Turner.

HOW IT WORKED

A druggist who wanted to sell electric waffle irons was advised to employ an attractive young woman to cook waffles in the store. He was assured that the scheme would boost sales.

"How did it turn out?" asked his adviser.

"A smart gink married the girl the first week."

Sincerity

Messenger Boy—Good day, sir. My master's compliments, and he would like to pay you his bill.

Business Man—That's good, my boy.

Boy—But . . . he can't.—Flegende Blaetter.

THEN HE WENT

She (wearily)—Your main spring must be broken, or you'd surely go.

The Young Lawyer

"And if, my son," the lawyer said, "My shoes you wish to fill, Remember that I got my start By working with a will."

Noise Competition

"Nero fiddled while Rome burned," said the ready-made philosopher.

"I don't believe it," answered Senator Sorghum. "No musician with any sort of artistic self-respect would attempt a violin solo while a fire department was performing in the streets."

Preliminary Practice

Girl (taking singing lessons)—Do you think I might use my voice in public now?

Wearily Tutor—O, I suppose so. You might cheer when your brother's team scores.—Stray Stories.

RED WING MAN FOUND DEAD

NOTE IN HIS HOTEL ROOM REFERRED TO "BROKEN HEART"

St. Paul, Minn., May 9.—(UP)—An autopsy was to be held today to determine the cause of death to Edward Tibbits, 55, said to be formerly of Red Wing, Minn. He was found dead in his room here early Sunday by Mrs. L. Sullivan, proprietor of a rooming house.

Tibbits left a note relating the causes of a "broken heart." He is survived by two children and a divorced wife who reside at Red Wing.

John J. Schneller, 84, Civil war veteran, was found dead from asphyxiation Sunday at a hotel here. Police believe he accidentally left a gas jet open, resulting in his death while he was asleep.

Getting the Days Paced

Buster, age three, is trying to learn the days of the week.

Almost every morning his first question is, "Mother, what kind of a day is this?"

He also has a habit of expressing his views in the form of wishes. Recently his mother found him in possession of her fountain pen. When she took it from him he studied a moment and then said: "I wish I had a mother what would not take pens away from people when they want to mark on magazines."

Tooth Caused Rattle

An annoying rattle that had baffled automobile mechanics, both professional and amateur, caused Harry A. Sattler of Rye, N. Y., to have his new car overhauled. Nothing wrong was found, but the rattle persisted. Then stepping into his machine one day, Mr. Sattler noticed a bit of gold glittering in the sun. It proved to be a peg attached to a perfectly good false tooth which had lodged in a cavity beneath the floor board. When the tooth was extracted the rattle stopped.

Bear Suffocated in Tree

After sawing through a large cedar tree stump near Revelstoke, B. C., two ranchers were amazed to discover that they had decapitated a bear. Evidence showed that bruin had entered through a hole at the roots of the tree. Scratching the rotting wood inside, the animal released enough chips to block the hole and cut off his air supply. The body was in a rolled-up posture, suggesting that he had been attempting a turn when he died through suffocation.

How Thin Women Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days

Ask Johnson's Pharmacy, Economy Drug Co. or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good, healthy, solid flesh, and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, all druggists are authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days. One thin woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine—60 tablets—60 cents. The "just as good" imitations aren't enough for you.
